

Talks During Nixon's Visit To Red China Will Be Bilateral, Kissinger Says

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, fresh from a second exploratory visit to Peking, said Wednesday that President Nixon and his Chinese counterparts hoped to restrict their substantive talks during Nixon's forthcoming China visit to issues between the two countries and would refrain from discussing issues involving third parties — including Moscow and the war in Vietnam.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Nixon's trip will take place sometime after Jan. 1, probably early in the year, and that a precise timetable will be disclosed by the White House before Dec. 1.

This further information on the timing of the presidential journey — which some observers had speculated would occur this year — became available Wednesday afternoon after Kissinger had briefed the President on his recent six-day visit to Peking. Kissinger later gave newsmen an account of his trip, which ended Tuesday afternoon.

Kissinger told reporters that the two countries had made considerable progress on both the technical details and the substantive agenda for the trip. He emphasized that both sides saw the visit as an "opportunity to make a new beginning" in Chinese-American relationships, and for this reason, among others, every effort would be made to concentrate on bilateral issues.

He stressed, in addition, that the trip was not intended to exploit rivalries or relationships China might have with other nations, and that it was not "directed against third countries."

Accordingly, he said, Nixon felt strongly that outstanding issues between the Soviet Union and Peking, for example, were "issues for them to discuss between themselves." When asked if this prohibition against discussions about third countries also ruled out conversations about the war in Vietnam, Kissinger was less unequivocal but added:

"We expect to settle the Vietnam war either by the unilateral policies we are pursuing or by negotiations with Hanoi. We are not going to settle it in Peking."

Kissinger insisted that the timing of his trip — which occurred during the United Nations debate over the admission of Communist China and the expulsion of Nationalist China, and ended just before the final vote — was a coincidence. He said he did not believe his presence in Communist China had affected a single vote, and that he had not discussed the subject with Chinese officials at any time during his visit.

In addition, he said, he did not know any more now than when he left about reports that China had been torn by a mysterious internal power struggle. He indicated that he had not raised the subject, and added, "I have no idea whatever about the internal balance in the leadership of the Chinese government or the Chinese Communist party."

Kissinger, who conferred with Chou En-Lai at some length during his six-day visit, said negotiations between the American team and their Chinese counterparts were divided into two general areas. He said he discussed substantive matters with Chou while other members of his party worked on technical arrangements such as security, communications and press coverage.

He described all the discussions as amicable and productive, and said agreement in principle had been achieved "on all of the major items." He added, however, that another advance trip would probably be required before the President himself left for Peking in order to iron out details of technical matters such as security and communications.

The national security adviser also said he had spent some time sightseeing and visiting various places in Peking which the President himself might wish to see, including the Forbidden City, the Great Wall, the Ming Tombs, the Summer Palace, and a hospital where Chinese doctors demonstrated the acupuncture technique, a sports arena and a chemical and petroleum complex.

Kissinger stressed that both sides well understood the "profound political and philosophical differences" between the two nations, and knew that the Nixon visit could not reconcile these differences. However, he said, it is possible to "make a new beginning," and to start, at least, a "process" that might in time end the "isolation from each other of two great peoples."

S. Vietnamese To Free 618 V.C. Prisoners

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government announced Thursday it will free 618 Viet Cong prisoners of war Sunday in the biggest single release of the Indochina war.

The Defense Ministry said the release is an amnesty on the occasion of the inauguration of President Nguyen Van Thieu for a second term.

All of the prisoners are South Vietnamese Communists, or Viet Cong, a spokesman said. He said there are no prisoners from North Vietnam involved.

It also was reported that Thieu is expected to make a new peace proposal on South Vietnam's national day Monday. Sources said they understood that the proposal will contain new elements.

The spokesman for the Defense Ministry, Lt. Col. Du Thanh Nhut, said the release of the Viet Cong is the biggest of the war.

He said 442 of the prisoners are in "good health" while 176

MT. ALTON CHURCH TO BE MOVED

St. Joseph's Catholic Church at Mt. Alton, sited directly in the line-of-approach to Bradford Regional Airport, was to have been moved to a new site a mile or so away Wednesday, but it is still there. The mover, Walter J. Phillips & Sons of Franklin, ran into unexpected difficulties when the twin steel I-beams, placed under the 60-ton church for the move, twisted out of shape as a set of wheels underneath dropped into a hole. The mover said it would be a week or more before he would be ready to attempt the job again. Reason for the move is clearly shown above as an Allegheny Airlines airplane approaches the airport for a landing. It is flying directly over the church, following the Approach Landing System lights, one tower of which is clearly shown. The church has been in Mt. Alton since 1884 and will be moved to land donated by Ann Zias, a parish member. (Photo Courtesy of Russ Johnson).

First Roman Catholic Cabinet Minister Named In Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Prime Minister Brian Faulkner named the first Roman Catholic cabinet minister in Northern Ireland's history Wednesday in a gesture aimed at stopping the spreading bloodshed. British troops threatened to shoot children who fire on them.

The new minister, Dr. Gerard Newe, appealed for support from "my Catholic fellow citizens" and pointed out the "symbolism" of his nomination to the office—"a role which I can not adequately discharge without substantial support and good will from the community."

His appointment as minister of state, however, appeared unlikely to appease extreme Roman Catholic circles or members of the illegal Irish Republican Army.

The violence raged on. Two policemen lured by a hoax fire call to a farm early Thursday were cut down by guerrilla gunfire that left one dead and

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, giving a delayed reaction to Monday night's events that saw the United Nations admit mainland China and expel Taiwan, suggested Wednesday the result could be lessened U.S. support and a reshuffling of foreign aid.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon was shocked by what he regarded as "undisguised glee" and "personal animosity" on the part of unnamed U.N. delegates following votes by the world organization that marked a diplomatic defeat for the United States.

Reading from notes, Ziegler made it clear to reporters that he spoke for Nixon and the government in saying "we would be less than candid" if warning were not served publicly that Monday's happenings could well erode public and congressional support for the U.N. and—in the case of foreign aid—for countries whose delegates joined in what he termed "a shocking spectacle."

The White House spokesman said he was talking about events that took place on the floor of the General Assembly following Monday night's votes, as seen by Nixon and others on television news programs.

The extent and direction of Nixon's reported shock, perhaps anger, were not clear.

The press secretary insisted the United States is not challenging the U.N. votes, but rather objects to the post-voting actions of some delegates as seen by Nixon on his home screen.

Asked exactly what certain delegates had done to shock the chief executive, Ziegler spoke of "the cheering, the clapping, the undignified actions on the part of some delegates."

In talking earlier about displays of "personal animosity," Ziegler said he meant that animosity was directed at American policy rather than at Nixon or the country as a whole.

The President, he said, supports the United Nations and wants to see it succeed. But he said "the shocking demonstration and the undisguised glee that was shown by some of the delegates ... could have a detrimental effect on support for the United Nations in this country."

"It is not our intention to retaliate," said Ziegler. But he noted that some of the delegates whose actions were offensive to Nixon represented countries that receive considerable foreign aid from the United States.

"The shocking spectacle," he said, "could also affect foreign aid allocations because of the impact on Congress and the people."

At a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing on the treaty returning Okinawa to Japan, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania told Secretary of State William P. Rogers that the U.N. decision to expel National China has created strong feelings against both the United Nations and the $3.2-billion foreign-aid bill now before the Senate. The bill contains funds for many countries that opposed U.S. efforts to keep both Chinas in the world organization.

"There exists no real friendly sentiment towards the United Nations in the Senate today," Scott told Rogers, adding that almost any move to cut the bill at this point would be approved. "I'd rather cool the whole foreign-aid bill at this point," Scott said.

If an amendment is offered to cut U.N. funds, he added, "I'm afraid it would pass."

Rogers said "We've got to be careful how we act as a nation" and said the United States should avoid getting into a position of saying "We pay more so we expect them to do more for us."

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana sought to forestall until next year any move to chop U.N. funds in retaliation.

The regular appropriation for the U.S. contribution to the United Nations has already been passed, but the pending measure contains some $141 million for U.N. aid programs.

Brezhnev Accuses U.S. Of Intrigue With Red China

PARIS (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev accused the United States at a formal dinner Wednesday night of intriguing with Red China to settle the Vietnam war "behind the backs of the Vietnamese people."

Repeating a theme that has appeared frequently in the Moscow press, the Soviet Communist party chief said "backstage intrigues" or attempts to impose a solution would fail.

It seemed surprising that Brezhnev would use a dinner for President Georges Pompidou, his official host, as a forum to attack both Washington and Peking.

Brezhnev did not mention China by name, but the formula was a familiar one. After saying "American aggression" in Indochina was an obstacle to peace, Brezhnev added: "There is only one way to a solution of the Indochina conflict and that is an end to the foreign intervention in the internal affairs of the peoples of that region of the world."

"No solution can be found to this problem by attempts to impose a foreign will on Vietnam by force, or by intrigues carried on backstage behind the backs of the Vietnamese people."

Brezhnev's allusion to the possibility of a Chinese-American agreement on Vietnam was an indication of the persistent Soviet uneasiness about President Nixon's decision to visit Peking.

Brezhnev also spoke of the "energetic actions of our (two) countries favoring the convocation" of a European security conference. He said the conference for which Moscow has been pushing would take place next year.

His reference to preparations followed reports from diplomatic sources earlier Wednesday that Brezhnev and Pompidou had reached agreement in principle on a procedural formula.

Connally Hopes Controls Can Be Lifted By End Of '72

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally held out hope Wednesday that controls over the U.S. economy can be lifted by the end of 1972.

But Connally, chairman of the Cost of Living Council, avoided any commitment as he opened the case for Phase 2 economic legislation.

Instead, he urged the House Banking Committee to approve the full extension—until April 30, 1973—President Nixon has asked for his control powers. There is sentiment in Congress to let the April 30, 1972, expiration date stand for the present, or to grant a limited extension, so the lawmakers will have an early chance to review the program that will take over from the present freeze after Nov. 13.

Connally held open also the possibility that previously contracted wage increases may be unfrozen, even retroactively—but only if the new Pay Board so rules. He indicated he would not favor a legislative nudge in this direction.

"I think it would be a mistake to refuse at this time to fail to extend the act, or to extend it for only a few months," Connally said. "Although we have the power to put Phase 2 in place, the uncertainties that such action could generate among workers and businessmen about the duration of the program could well result in failure of the whole stabilization effort."

But he said he was not implying that Phase 2 will last the full term of the extension—"that program will be kept in place

Pentagon Acts To Close Draft Escape Hatches

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon acted Wednesday to close the National Guard and Reserves as an escape hatch for draft-eligible 19-year-olds by directing that they be given the lowest enlistment priority.

Dr. Theodore C. Marrs, deputy assistant secretary of defense for reserve affairs, said a 19-year-old signed up on a Guard or Reserve waiting list "is not home free."

Qualified men 20 years and older, women and youths 17 and 18 will be enlisted without regard to the waiting lists, Marrs told a news conference. Those now on the list and those vulnerable to the draft will, in effect, be bumped down, he added.

The policy explained by Marrs was spelled out in a new directive signed by Deputy Secretary of Defense David M. Packard. Marrs said the intent is to make clear that 19-year-olds now have "relatively low priority."

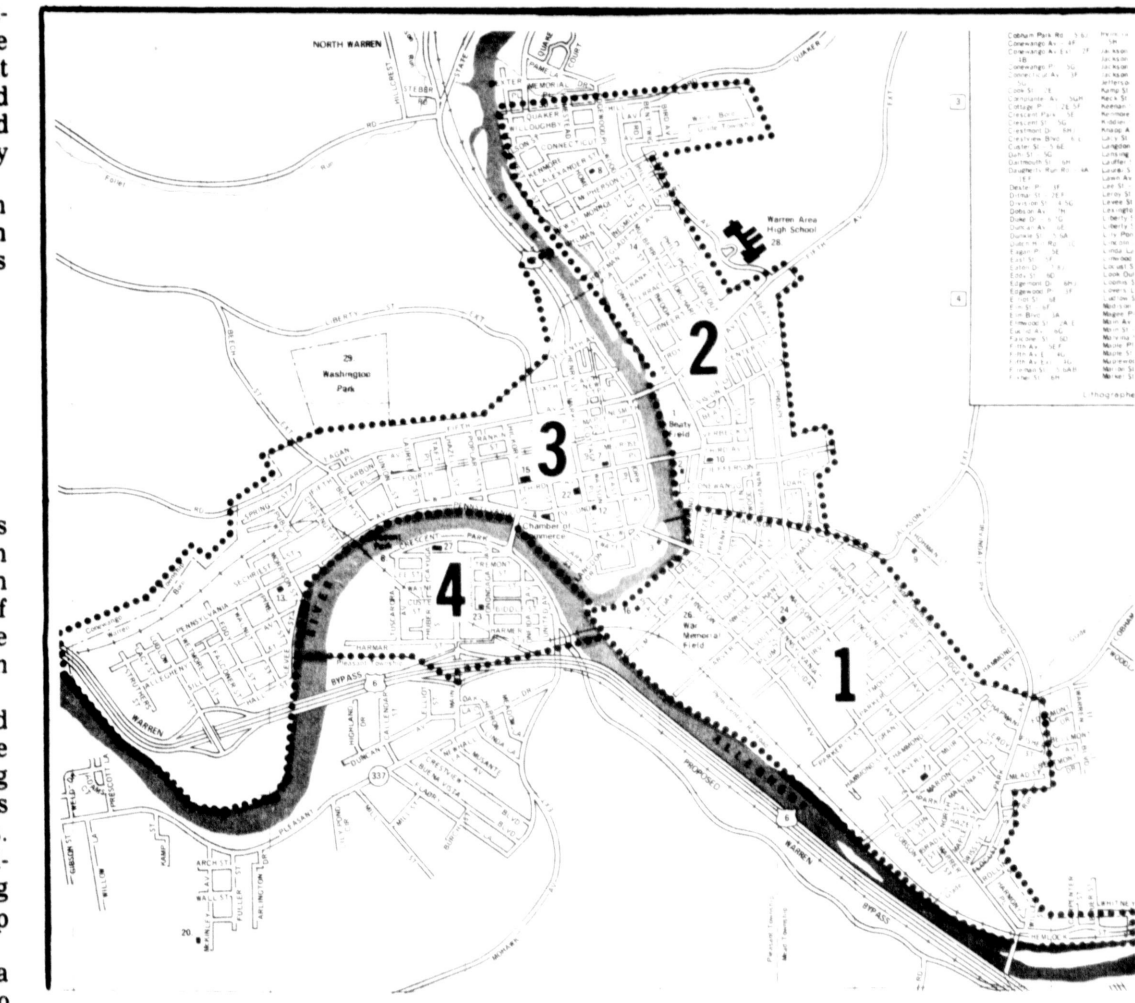

The enlistment program has served as a popular refuge from the draft during the Vietnam war. At one point, the backlog of men wanting to sign up for the Guard numbered more than 100,000.

But now, with the United States withdrawing from the war and draft calls dropping off, the Guard's waiting list has shrunk to about 15,000 names.

Marrs said also the new policy would help in recruiting blacks and other minority group members.

The Guard recently started a heavy recruiting campaign to offset the loss of draft-motivated volunteers. Following Pentagon criticism of its failure to enlist more Negroes, the Guard announced last month the goal of doubling the number of Negro guardsmen within the next 12 months.

In the past, Marrs said, the long waiting list, filled mostly with young whites, made it unnecessary to go out and actively recruit.

LEAF COLLECTION AREAS SET UP

Warren Borough has been divided into four sections for leaf collection this year, according to Frank Strange, borough manager. Residents living on the east side (section 1) will have their leaves picked up Monday and Tuesday mornings. Those in section "2" will have leaf pick up Tuesday afternoons and Thursdays. Residents in the downtown and west side (3) can expect collection on Wednesday and south side (4) people are slated for Friday pick-up. Strange said the borough has three leaf collection machines this year, one more than they used last season. He said that some days the work load may be so heavy that the machines may not be able to complete the assigned district. If that happens minor schedule variations may occur. He warned residents to keep the leaves between the sidewalk and the street when possible and out of the gutters. He also noted that bricks, stones and branches hidden in the leaves may be harmful to the collection machines.

No-Fault Plans: What They Are

By Sylvia Porter

More than half the state legislatures in the U.S. are either considering—or have already passed—some watered-down version of no-fault auto insurance.

In one fairly typical plan—Illinois, effective early in 1972—auto insurance companies must pay their own policyholders who are accident victims up to $2,000 in medical expenses, plus 85 per cent of lost wages (up to $150 a week) for a period of one year, plus child-care costs of $12 a day for a full year. The payments must be made within 30 days of the accident and without regard to who caused the accident. The plan is voluntary.

How would you like to see the whole concept of "fault" stricken from today's lexicon of auto insurance? To be relieved of the spectre of a $100,000 to $200,000 or more liability suit against you should you cause a serious auto accident? To have your auto insurance premiums slashed 15 to 25 per cent through the no-fault auto insurance system—now being debated across the land?

A Gallup poll a few months back disclosed the startling fact that four out of five of you are so ignorant of no-fault auto insurance that you do not even know whether you're for or against it. Yet the poll also revealed that four out of five of those of you who are informed about this revolutionary new type of auto insurance applaud the idea.

You are paying dearly for your ignorance of no-fault auto insurance in the form of ever-rising insurance premiums, and of benefits amounting to a mere 40 to 50 cents of every auto insurance premium dollar you pay! Here, therefore, is a rundown of the best-known plans.

Prof. Robert Keeton and Illinois University Prof. Jeffrey O'Connell: Bans law-suits for economic losses of $10,000 or less and makes it mandatory for all to carry basic no-fault insurance. Each insurance company would pay its own policyholders up to $10,000 toward medical expenses, lost wages and incidental expenses associated with auto accidents, and including up to $5,000 for "pain and suffering." For costs above $10,000 or for pain and suffering over $5,000 you could sue the other driver's insurance company. Duplicate payments, via your health insurance policy, would be banned. You would be permitted to buy extra coverage. Estimated premium cost reduction: 15 to 25 per cent.

MASSACHUSETTS COMPULSORY PERSONAL INJURY PROTECTION PLAN: Similar to Keeton-O'Connell except that it pays only up to $2,000 on a no-fault basis, leaving cases involving higher losses open to all the evils of the pain and suffering yardstick. Dubbed "mini-no-fault."

AMERICAN INSURANCE ASSN'S COMPLETE PERSONAL PROTECTION AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE PLAN: Eliminates pain and suffering from basic policy. Would cover ALL medical, hospital and rehabilitation expenses and eliminate tort liability remedies for bodily injury as well as for damage to cars. Insurance compulsory, payment prompt. You could sue your own company if you believed payments to you were inadequate and collect up to $750 a month for lost wages. You would be responsible for cost of damages to your own car. Duplicate payments via health insurance would be permitted. Estimated savings: 25 to 30 per cent.

STEWART PLAN, drawn up by New York's ex-Superintendent of Insurance Richard E. Stewart: Medical costs borne largely by health insurance coverage with auto insurance paying only amounts for property damage (except to autos) and other costs not paid by other policies. All wage losses paid and lawsuits limited to accidents involving death only. Estimated premium savings: one third or more.

AMERICAN MUTUAL INSURANCE ALLIANCE'S GUARANTEED BENEFITS PLAN: would provide up to $50,000 for medical expenses and up to $6,000 for lost income. In claims of less than $3,000, arbitration would be used instead of court proceedings. No ban on suing.

Accounting Seminar At Behrend Campus

A three-day Management Accounting Seminar, "Fundamentals of Finance, Accounting and Planning," will be conducted at the Behrend Campus of Pennsylvania State University Dec. 13-15.

William E. Mosso, Assistant Director for Continuing Education at Behrend, said the program is intended for general management personnel from Erie, Crawford, Warren and Venango Counties who are or will be involved in making decisions and evaluating performance based upon long and short-range profitability analyses.

Each day-long session will be held in the J. Elmer Reed Building on the Behrend Campus from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Seminar speakers will include William L. Ferrara, Professor of Accounting at Penn State, and Arthur J. Francia, Assistant Professor of Accounting, Penn State. Dr. Ferrara received his Ph.D. degree from Michigan State University and is a Certified Public Accountant. Dr. Francia received his Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota.

Additional information and enrollment forms for area business and industry can be obtained by calling Continuing Education, Behrend Campus.

Halloween Horror

If you're going to be driving the night of Oct. 30 you'd better drive carefully.

The sidewalks will be full of witches, ghosts and a wierd assortment of frightening creatures the likes of which this town only sees once each year.

For the past 364 days these 'creatures' have been disguised as your neighbor's children. As just-plain-kids they try to obey the rules—to cross with the light and watch out for cars.

When Halloween comes, they sometimes forget.

Borough Police Chief Bernard Winegardner claims the schools have helped a great deal in educating the youngsters to obey traffic and safety codes. Despite all the precautions, though, children have been known to get hurt.

There's something magic about Halloween to a school-age youngster. They're all excited -- some get downright devilish.

A few concentrate too hard on the business of candy gathering and not hard enough on the business of staying alive.

And that's where you come in. As a driver you have a responsibility to be more alert and more careful than usual that night. Drinking and driving mix particularly poorly on Halloween, especially during the hours that the kids are out.

Winegardner cites a situation that occurred a few years ago in the borough as being exemplary of what might happen. On Halloween night of that year a motorist accidentally drove through a pile of leaves that was stacked near the curbside.

Among the leaves was a small boy, apparently hiding from his friends. He was struck by the car.

Luckily the boy was only shaken up. He could have been killed or crippled for life.

Sure, the driver did nothing wrong; it wasn't his fault. But what if the boy had been hurt? Would your conscience let you believe there was no way of preventing the accident?

Perhaps an alert driver would have seen the leaves moving strangely or noticed a bit of the boy's clothing peeping through the pile.

Be an alert driver. Don't spend the rest of your life thinking about what might have been.

We Need Hot Line

Few people realize just how badly a "Hot Line" is needed even in Warren County. It might be expected that in our quiet communities, crises would be reached only on rare occasions.

But suicide statistics alone point to the need: 17 in a two-year period, all under 50 years of age -- three young people in less than two weeks.

Nobody ever will know how many accidental deaths are the result of emotional instability.

Only those whose lives may be saved by dialing for help, or whose problems may be solved, will ever fully appreciate the value of this service designed for crises prevention.

If only one suicide is prevented, if one teenager finds the strength to resist drugs, if one lonely widow finds comfort in an anonymous voice that says it cares, "Hot Line" will have paid its way.

That way won't be an easy one. The Warren County Mental Health Association and the Family Service Society, and those volunteers working with them, need the community's support now more than ever.

They need money. They need more volunteers willing to be trained for the demanding job of coping with crises.

We applaud the 14 volunteers who Monday night bared their souls at the first seminar that they might better understand themselves toward a better understanding of those who need help.

Likewise, we applaud the instructors who have taken time to attend training seminars in Buffalo where the program has proven successful.

We applaud the Mental Health Association and Family Service for their foresight in lighting a fire under the program two years ago, and for their continuing financial and moral support, along with the Kiwanis clubs of North Warren and Warren and the ladies of the Twice-Around Shop of Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church.

Next Week's State Election Is Crucial

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — By this time next week Pennsylvania's 1971 general election will have wafted into the pages of history and the battlecry will be: on to 1972 and a critical presidential election year.

The salient fact is that the local runoffs coming up in Tuesday's election will mark the end of the 1971 election season for the Keystone State — and at the same time signal the start of all-out strategy moves in preparation for the upcoming 1972 hoedown, which in addition to being a presidential election year will also be a congressional and legislative election year.

It is true no gubernatorial run is on the books for 1972 — but for the Keystone State it will be a big year, a critically important year in every respect.

For example, ere the dust has settled over the ballot boxes one year hence the question will have been answered as to whether Pennsylvania's legislative branch is to continue under the complete domination of pro-administration Democrats — or whether there will be a politically split Legislature with either the Senate or House of Representatives in opposition Republican hands.

Incumbent Democratic Governor Milton J. Shapp by that time will be winding up the second year of his four-year sojourn at the helm of the Keystone State ship of state — the first Democrat to do so since the last Democratic demise of the late Governor David L. Lawrence in 1962.

In the months ahead, as Governor and titular head of the Democratic Party in Pennsylvania, he is expected to have much to say as to how the Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic Presidential Nominating Convention swings and sways, fumbles and bumbles, or moves through the convention in a constructive, critical and perhaps decisive vein.

Again though, depending on how the presidential election goes next fall and how Mr. Shapp maneuvers his nominating convention troops, the outcome of the big runoff could mean very much to the Keystone State — a Democratic president could place Pennsylvania in an enviable posture, providing of course His Excellency plays his cards correctly.

All of this of course is outside Tuesday's upcoming election — but at the same time it does point up at least one critical facet of what lies ahead within the scope of fast approaching 1972.

But of equal concern to strategists of both parties in their strategy thinking looking ahead to next year is the final picture to emerge insofar as the complexion of the State Legislature is concerned in the coming year's presidential-congressional - legislative runoffs.

A split Legislature, or worse than this, one in which both the House and Senate fall into opposition hands — that is, in opposition to the political party of the Governor — can do more to throttle an administration than any other single factor. (The last two years of the past Republican Shaffer Administration with the House in opposition Democratic hands illustrates the point.)

In fact it has reached the point now where the complexion of the legislative branch is viewed by many as of equal importance (politically) to the office of Governor of the great Commonwealth.

Again — the last half of the Shaffer reign illustrates precisely why.

It was during that two-year sojourn that Mr. Shaffer found programs he had enunciated bottled up completely time after time as the legislative branch (primarily because of the opposition-controlled Democratic House) refused to go along with His Excellency's proposals — pointing up in the final analysis the inherent outranking of the legislative branch over the executive branch, and why next year's legislative contests are viewed with such concern (even though it will be a presidential year).

For Your Eyes Only

By Russell Baker

WASHINGTON — From time to time, in response to reader demand for more fuel for paranoia, this space will be filled with "Hot from the Feedbag," the infamous syndicated column by Albert Bustard, which specializes in inside information, malicious rumor, character assassination, breezy assertion and random mendacity. Bustard's first column follows:

White House insiders are whispering about scarcely credible new travel plans for the Chief Executive to follow his coming triumphs in Peking and Moscow.

According to one White House biggie, the President would like to follow up his visits to these two big-time enemy capitals by making live, on-the-spot appearances for peace in other places even more hostile.

After Moscow, according to top White House men this column meets behind potted geraniums in Georgetown, President Nixon will go to Cuba.

If the Cuba trip succeeds, the President is telling intimates, he would like to visit New York.

Flash! — The hitherto undisclosed reason why President Nixon has been kicking around one-time good friends, Canada and Japan, can now be revealed exclusively by "Hot from the Feedbag." We predicted five weeks ago that events would show it was not mere greed and stupidity that led this government to infuriate two of its best friends. Once again, we were right.

Movie-starlet insiders say Professor Kissinger has told them it's part of the administration's plan to give us a generation of peace for the President to run on in next year's election. Here's how the President's top peace experts see it: Nixon's friendship visits to Peking, Moscow, Cuba and New York will leave the United States without any serious

Cables From Around The World

WASHINGTON—"Mr. President, I have some cables I would like to read to you."

"Yes, Mr. Rogers. Go ahead."

The secretary of state started to read: "Because of recent actions taken by your government, I must warn you that we are going to take strong measures that might eventually lead to a break in relations between our two countries."

"Is that from Kosygin?" the President asked anxiously.

"No, it's from Premier Trudeau of Canada."

"He's probably bluffing, but alert our SAC command anyway."

"Here's the next one, Mr. President. Your perfidious and outrageous behavior toward our country has forced me to take action which will cause grave consequences for the entire world."

"It sounds like a note from North Vietnam."

"I'm afraid not, Mr. President. It came from Japan."

"But Hirohito didn't seem mad when I saw him in Alaska."

"This was just delivered this morning, Mr. President. The running dogs of the United States imperialism will soon realize that we will not be pushed around and that we are not paper tigers who can be sacrificed on the altar of the American dollar."

Wage-Price Freeze

Q— Will exemptions from the freeze be granted for persons with low incomes?

A— While the Cost of Living Council has not granted formal exemptions for low income persons, it has stated that, during the freeze, the following are allowed: increases that are necessary to bring wages into line with minimum wage legislation; increases that eliminate discriminatory wage practices; increases in welfare payments; and increases in coverage or benefits under Social Security.

Q— The lease on my apartment provides for an automatic rent increase of five dollars next month. Can my landlord make me pay this increase?

A— No. Rents on apartments and houses cannot be raised during the freeze, even if the lease provides for an increase.

"Let me think who that could be from," the President said. "I know—it's from Chile."

"You're wrong again, Mr. President. It's from Denmark."

"Little Denmark?" the President said.

"But they're in NATO."

"I know sir. It surprised us too. Here is another one. The betrayal by the Americans, though it did not come as a surprise, has not gone unnoticed in this part of the world. We shall reciprocate in kind until we have you on your knees begging for mercy and screaming for forgiveness."

"That has to be Castro," the President said.

The secretary of state shook his head.

"It's from Chiang Kai-shek in Taiwan."

"Well, you can't win them all," the President said.

"This one was delivered verbally to our ambassador. Tell your President that his recent actions can only be interpreted as a personal affront to 40 million people, and we shall demand full compensation for any losses suffered by his unilateral action."

"That has to be Egypt," the President said.

"Would you believe it came from the Vatican?"

"Connally said the surcharge would cause some difficulties, but I didn't think we'd be in THIS much trouble. Mr. Rogers, don't you have any cables with good news in them?"

The secretary kept going through the flimsies.

Finally he came up with one. "Here you are, sir. It reads: 'Dear Mr. President. I wish you to know how grateful we are for everything the United States is doing and how all of us here consider that you are not only a great President, but a brave one, who will do the right thing, even if it's unpopular and could hurt you politically. Your courage has been an inspiration to our country and we sincerely hope we will be friends for years to come.'"

"That's more like it," the President smiled. "I knew Prime Minister Heath would come through."

"This isn't from Prime Minister Heath, sir. It's from Chou En-lai. He gave it to Henry Kissinger last Thursday."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Gen. William Westmoreland, the Army's grey eminence, is all hot-and-bothered about haircuts.

During the summer, the Army began a recruiting campaign which featured advertisements in national magazines. The ads showed a photograph of a young man with longish hair and carried the legend: "We care more about how you think than how you cut your hair."

This, it turns out, isn't true. General Westmoreland, at least, is more concerned about hair styles than grey matter. Orders have gone out to crack down on haircuts.

A stern memo to Army staff heads decrees that sideburns absolutely must stop "at the lowest part of the exterior ear opening." And above the ears, a soldier's hair "must not interfere with the normal wear of all standard military headgear."

By Westmoreland's hair standards, the young man in the Army advertisement would be marched to the barber.

The Army tried to stop the advertisement, but it was already in print. Now an internal circular has been issued to make clear that the youth who posed for the recruitment ad, doesn't meet the haircut specifications.

Explains the circular sheepishly: "The advertisement is designed to appeal to young men in the 17-21-year old group who may be considering military service. The photograph represents an individual from the group; it does NOT repeat NOT illustrate a soldier meeting the standards set by . . . the Army."

The Army chief is dead serious about haircuts. The memo, relaying his orders, warns sternly: "Firm corrective action will be taken against those who violate the stated haircut policy, as well as those in the chain of command who fail to detect such violations or enforce prescribed standards."

While Westmoreland huffs over hairdos, the Army is torn by racial strife, drug abuse and a breakdown in discipline.

WASHINGTON WHIRL

Wage Crackdown—President Nixon's economic advisers admit privately that the basic aim of his economic program is to hold down wage increases. They regard wage levels as the biggest element in the cost of production. The average wage for non-farm workers rose 8 per cent in the last fiscal year. Yet the output per man-hour rose less than 3 per cent. This meant that production costs, in order to meet the rising wage levels, had to go up. The real thrust of the President's Phase II program, therefore, is to control wage levels. The White House will go through the motions of keeping the lid on prices and will threaten to take action against excessive profits. But it's really wages that Nixon wants to control.

Railroad Handout—Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., has given substance to fears that the bankrupt Penn Central railroad will need still more federal funds to keep it running. The U.S. Treasury is already guaranteeing about $100 million in loans for Penn Central. Now Hartke, in a "Dear Jervis" letter to Penn Central trustee Jervis Langdon, Jr., has dropped a hint that the Treasury may have to be tapped again. As chairman of the Senate Surface Transportation Subcommittee, Hartke asked Langdon to stop withholding from the committee files that might be needed "in anticipating any money crisis necessitating a congressional response."

Nixon Peace—In stronger language than he has ever used in public, President Nixon assured Republican congressional leaders last week that he expects to get out of Vietnam with an "honorable" peace. He chafed behind closed doors over the Senate amendments that seek to force his hand on settling the war. "Those who offer amendments which indicate no confidence in the President," grumped Nixon, "are going to look silly."

Byrd's Offer—After the White House leaked out word that President Nixon was considering Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., for the Supreme Court, Washington buzzed with rumors that Byrd has used his Senate staff to prepare his legal briefs and term-papers for law school. He entered American University's law school after his election to the Senate, attended classes at night and graduated in 1963 with a high "B" average. His professors and classmates say he was an excellent student. One professor, Louis C. James, describes Byrd as one of the two most "alert and attentive students he has ever taught."

We were convinced by our investigation that the rumors aren't true. But we put the question to Byrd, who dictated this emphatic reply: "I will give $5,000 to the individual who brings to me any staff member of mine, past or present, who will say publicly and in my presence that he or she wrote any of my law school term papers, briefs or any part thereof. Further, if this absurd, vicious rumor be proved, I will resign my seat in the Senate."

Capital Chaff—A road crew recently made a deep excavation in front of the Soviet Embassy for cable repair. From behind the embassy fence, anxious Soviet plainclothesmen kept an apprehensive eye on the project, presumably fearing someone might plant a bug or worse underneath the embassy. . . . Ceylon's softly shrewd woman premier, Sirimavo Bandaranaike, taped a television interview during her recent Washington visit. Afterward, Ceylon Embassy aides discreetly phoned Metromedia's Stan Berk to find out when it would be aired. It was scheduled in the middle of a performance she would be watching at the Kennedy Center. But Mrs. Bandaranaike brought along a portable TV set, so she could sneak a look at her own performance. . . . At a Navy management forum, Rear Adm. Nathan Sonenshein was asked: "Has the leak to Jack Anderson been found yet?" Sonenshein glumly answered, "No."

Market Sinks Within Shade Of Lowest Level Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market extended its sharp retreat through the 11th consecutive session Wednesday and sank within a shade of its lowest level of the year.

The market's performance followed the script that has dictated its action most of this month.

Wall Street analysts could offer no deviation from their repeated expressions that the market was being pressed down by the uncertainty of investors about what lies ahead for the domestic and international economies.

An overriding matter of concern, they said, was how the Nixon administration would carry out Phase 2 of its economic recovery program.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials tumbled 8.98 to 836.38, its lowest closing level since last Jan. 8. The total loss by this average in 11 straight sessions mounted to 57.17 points.

The Associated Press 60-stock average fell 3.4 to 307.4 with industrials off 4.5, rails off 2.6 and utilities off 1.0. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks dropped 0.54 to 51.80. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index took a loss of .95 at 93.79.

Prices among the more actively traded Big Board issues included TWA, off 1 1/4 to 35 1/4; Fleetwood Enterprises, off 2 to 27 1/4; Skyline, off 2 1/4 to 45 1/4; Boise Cascade, up 1/2 to 18 1/2; and Redman Industries, off 1 1/4 to 23 1/4.

American Stock Exchange prices fell again. The price-change index dropped .24 to 24.49. Among 1,118 issues traded, 726 declined and 149 rose. Volume totaled 3.61 million shares.

Among Amex prices were Champion Home Builders, off 3 to 33 1/4; Presley Development, off 3 1/4 to 45 1/4; Arctic Enterprises, up 1 to 39 1/4; Tesoro Petroleum, off 1 1/4 to 34; and Lennox, off 3 1/2 to 36.

Cagers, Matmen Open Doors Soon

With football in its waning days, Nov. 1 and 10 are awaited with increasing anticipation. On the first, basketball teams around the county will officially open practice and on the tenth, wrestlers will take to the mats.

Warren's new head basketball mentor, Ed McGlumphy, will greet all candidates next Monday. The Dragons have posted 10-12 marks in each of the past two seasons.

Ron Dunbar has only two lettermen returning from a squad that posted a 3-19 record last year at Eisenhower. Five lettermen will form the nucleus of the Sheffield Wolverines for coach Rod Vashaw. Sheffield will be out to improve on a 9-13 season.

Two teams, Tidouate and Youngsville, posted winning marks last year, but both appear to be hit hard by graduation. Youngsville, 18-4 under Bob Kolesar, lost last season's top seven players and will open with only two lettermen. Paul Ludwig will have only one returnee from a 10-9 team at Tidouate.

On the wrestling front, physicals will be conducted Nov. 2 for Warren grapplers, as coach Lee Chew prepares to welcome back nine lettermen.

Eisenhower wrestlers will be out to duplicate last season, when they compiled an outstanding 12-2 record under Tony Ross. Physicals are set for the first week of November.

The Eagles of Youngsville also have nine letter winners back from the 1970-71 squad, which finished with a 5-8-1 record for coach Bob Lindsey.

Bulaich Continues NFL Rushing Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Power has apparently replaced speed as the prime asset for National Football League running backs, according to weekly statistics issued today.

Baltimore's hard-driving fullback, Norm Bulaich, tops the American Football Conference—and all of pro football—in rushing with 503 yards in just 77 carries, a 6.5 average.

Another power runner, Steve Owens of Detroit, tops the National Football Conference with 484 yards. The former Heisman Trophy winner from Oklahoma has carried the ball 106 times for a 4.6 average.

In fact, there's not a single speed merchant among the leaders in either conference.

Larry Csonka of Miami, Marv Hubbard of Oakland and Jim Kiick of Miami trail Bulaich in the AFC, while Larry Brown of Washington and Ken Willard of San Francisco rank behind Owens in the NFC.

Dallas' Roger Staubach replaced Detroit's Greg Landry as the statistical passing leader in the NFC this week, while Len Dawson of Kansas City replaced Miami's Bob Griese in the AFC.

Rookie Billy Parks of San Diego paces the AFC in receiving with 29 catches, two more than Kansas City's Otis Taylor. In the NFC, Dick Gordon of Chicago leads with 28 receptions, even though he's had three different passers throwing at him—Jack Concannon, Kent Nix and Bobby Douglass.

Elsewhere on the charts, Miami's Garo Yepremian is the leading scorer in the league with 59 points, one ahead of Washington's Curt Knight, on 15 goals and 13 extra points.

Jerrel Wilson of Kansas City tops NFL punters with a 48.3-yard average. Miami's Dick Anderson is the leading punt returner with a 17.5 average. Detroit's Ron Jesse is No. 1 on kickoff returns with a 39.6 average and Ken Ellis of Green Bay has six interceptions to lead that department.

Who's That Outstanding Runner State's Paterno Has? Lydell??

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — It hasn't been easy for Penn State's Lydell Mitchell to get the acclaim due one of the slickest running backs in college football.

Even this season when Mitchell is averaging 6.4 yards per carry for the nation's 6th ranked team, one broadcaster for a national network told his listeners: "And Penn State won today ... with three touchdowns by Lydell SMITH."

SMITH?

It's been that way throughout the 22-year-old Mitchell's college football career. He's sort of been playing in anonymity. There was his first year, 1969. He gained 616 yards on 113 carries for a 5.5 average. Penn

Grimsley's Done It Now: Picks Colorado Over Neb.

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — It was Two-Buck Benny who warned that "fools rush in where angels fear to tread" but even Two-Buck couldn't resist a good longshot when it belted him in the face.

Two of the best longshots on the weekend college schedule are Colorado, a 20 1/2-point underdog, to knock Nebraska off the No. 1 rung, and incensed Mississippi, figured to lose by 17 1/2, to topple Louisiana State.

Last week's score: 45-13, 776.

Intramural Football

Theil lost its second game in a row, dropping to third place in the standings as Grove City whitewashed Theil 6-0, to bring its record up to the .500 mark.

Clarion moved another step closer to the league title as it chopped Slippery Rock 12-0, and Lock Haven, in a game mired with penalties, dropped a 10-6 game to Gannon, slipping into sole position of last place.

GIVES DEMONSTRATION

Tom Handest, (far right) a fourth degree black belt, recently gave a lecture and demonstration for nearly 70 members of the Warren Area High School gym classes in karate. Assisting him in the demonstration were Gayle Stewart, a green belt karate student, and Ken Stewart, to the right of Handest. Stewart is a yellow belt student and a history teacher at the high school. Gym class instructor, Jim Wilkins, is pictured next to Handest.

State went to the Orange Bowl and was ranked No. 2 in the nation. Everybody raved about Mitchell, right?

Wrong?

State happened to have a great defensive team, headed by Mike Reid, now of the Cincinnati Bengals. The defense allowed 87 points in 10 games and was ranked among the best in college football. Mitchell was just another guy on a little talked about offense.

Mitchell gained 751 yards last season, but State lost three of its first five games and although it finished with a five game winning streak, was unranked and uninvited to a bowl. Good running backs on unranked and uninvited teams don't get much notice.

So far this season, the 195-pound Mitchell has gained 837 yards and scored 14 touchdowns. He's been over 100 yards per game four times. He needs 177 yards to break Penn State's rushing record and 246 to smash the one season mark, both held by Lenny Moore, later a pro great with the Baltimore Colts.

Mitchell predicted before the season that he would better Moore's records. With five games remaining he appears a cinch to make it.

"I felt that if I broke Moore's records that would help the team to have a good season," Mitchell says. That's the way it's worked out. I'm having a good season and so is the team, so far."

Detroit's Hughes Buried Yesterday

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — All 49 members of the Detroit Lions football team joined about 200 mourners today for the funeral of wide receiver Chuck Hughes.

Sixty-six Lions were present for the graveside services, including General Manager, Russ Thomas and Coach Joe Schmidt.

Among other mourners were Tex Schramm, president and general manager of the Dallas Cowboys; Tommy Nobis of the Atlanta Falcons; representatives of National Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle and officials from the NFL Players Association.

Hughes died Sunday after collapsing on the field during the game against Chicago.

Stanford 31, Oregon State 23: Jarred by Washington State, the Indians still spurred by the scent of roses.

Colorado 31, Nebraska 28: A team that can knock over LSU and Ohio State is capable of beating anybody. The Cornhuskers string and resulting pressure grow taut.

Nittany Lions Journey Into Coal Mining Area

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — Penn State and West Virginia, the top two football teams in the East, collide head-on Saturday, Oct. 30 in Morgantown, W. Va. A capacity crowd of more than 37,000 is expected at ancient Mountaineer Field for the game between the home-standing Mountaineers (6-1) and the Nittany Lions (6-0). Kickoff is 1:30 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time.

The Penn State Radio Network broadcast of the game will be sent to 400 American Forces Network affiliates around the world.

West Virginia will try to end a 15-year win drought against the Nittany Lions. The Mountaineers haven't beaten Penn State since 1955. The series started in 1904 and stands 28-7-2 in favor of Penn State.

"West Virginia has a very fine football team," says Penn State coach Joe Paterno. "They have great team speed and have thrown the ball very well."

Bernie Galiffa, a senior, leads the West Virginia attack. Galiffa has completed 71 of his 132 passing attempts for 828

MIRROR ON THE WALL . . .

Mirror, mirror on the wall, who is the worst prognosticator of them all?

Never mind, you don't have to answer it, I am. I've really flipped my lid, talking to mirrors. But nobody else will talk to me, not after missing three big games in last week's contest.

"I've lost my touch. That extrasensory perception I once enjoyed, it's gone."

Saegertown, an undefeated team until last Friday evening, was knocked off by Conneaut Valley. How do you explain it?

Underestimating Sheffield was a disaster. I really couldn't calculate Sheffield's fervor to upset the Terrors of Otto-Eldred. That pick was strike two.

Saturday night was the clincher. Jamestown . . . Jamestown . . . Jamestown, who would have picked those lowly Red Raiders to beat mighty Warren? Not I, and that was the third called strike.

You know what they say, "The best laid plans of mice and men . . . Well, er, I've changed my format; I'm trying something different this week. It's back to the crystal ball."

Follow me through this week's nine big scholastic gridiron challenges, if you dare.

FRANKLIN 15, WARREN 6

Gulp! It's going to be hard to say this, but . . . but Warren can't win the big one. Something happens to Warren, it must get a big lump when it comes to laying all the marbles on the table.

This should be a close one — Warren and Franklin games usually are.

Please, don't give me any phone calls asking how I could do it to the Dragons. I just did.

SMETHPORT 16, SHEFFIELD 14

Sorry, Sheffield. I'm a glutton for punishment. Prove me wrong again, I don't care.

I just can't see the Wolverines pulling the wool over my eyes two weeks in a row. The Hubbers, I believe, have just an eensie, teensie bit too much.

CONNEAUT VALLEY 24, YOUNGSVILLE 14

The Indians are so close to a Crawford County League title that they can taste it. Besides, Youngsville in the past has laid it on the Indians but good; I don't think their memory is that short.

For Youngsville to upset as in Townville's game would be nice, but not probable.

WESTFIELD 24, EISENHOWER 0

So far nobody in the Valley Conference has been able to stop the fearsome eleven the Wolverines employ, not even Maple Grove, which whipped Eisenhower last week.

The Knights really have their work cut out for them tomorrow evening. I firmly believe that Westfield has too much of everything for everybody in the league, with the exception of maybe Silver Creek — its opposition next week. Until then it's a safe bet that the Wolverines will be undefeated.

SILVER CREEK 16, MAPLE GROVE 14

The Knights can't be looking toward Westfield on Saturday, or they'll be picking themselves up from sure defeat. This can't help but be the Game Of The Week in the Valley Conference.

If the Knights can't unsaddle the Dragons Tim Wefing, then a shooting match is in the offing. The game is at Maple Grove, which could give the Dragons an extra incentive, but I look for the Knights' Sam Allen to see them through this game with a couple of his picturesque runs of over half the field.

OIL CITY 14, SHARPSVILLE 8

The Oilers have too much to lose at this stage of the game. With two losses to date, another one would complete annihilate its hopes of a tie in Section II, or possibly the Northwest Football Conference crown.

Sharpsville tasted victory for the first time last week in the conference, but Oil City is not Corry.

TITUSVILLE 14, GREENVILLE 13

Call it what you may, but I look for the Rockets, under the supervision of premier runner Joe Wagner, to knock off the Trojans.

It's a hunch, but I think it's a pretty good one.

ERIE EAST 40, JAMESTOWN 0

Oooh, are the Red Raiders ever going to get creamed. There's no chance of an upset for this one, as was the case with Warren, East is a super-powerful team.

BRADFORD C.C. 21, OTTO-ELDRED 2

There's no taking it away from the mighty Ramblers, they are the best in the Allegheny Mountain League.

Otto's in for a long night, a very long night. I gave them minus two because I'm angered at the Terrors because they let me down last week.

Rondon May Box Quarry

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Vicente Rondon of Venezuela, who successfully defended his World Boxing Association title in Miami Beach Tuesday night, has agreed to box the winner of Friday night's Mike Quarry-Jimmy Dupree 12-rounder in nearby Anaheim.

Rondon's American representative, Bill Daly, said here Wednesday the proposed match could be held at the Forum early next year under the promotion of Don Fraser and George Parnassus.

Quarry, ranked No. 2 among the world 175-pounders, and Jimmy Dupree, No. 3, meet for the latter's North American title.

Rondon stopped Gomeo Brennan in the 12th round in Miami Beach.

Coal Strike Negotiators Continue Talks In Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators in the 27-day-old strike of 80,000 coal miners continued talks Wednesday under a tightened lid of secrecy that indicated they could be considering a contract offer.

"I think this could be the crucial week," said one source of the negotiations between the United Mine Workers and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

Sources on both sides declined comment on unconfirmed reports that an industry offer was in the works to boost the current top daily wage of $37 by $3 per day per year for three years for a total of $9. The same unconfirmed reports also included speculation on an industry offer to boost the current 40-cent per ton royalty payment into the union's Welfare and Retirement Fund by 18 cents per ton.

W. A. "Tony" Boyle, president and chief negotiator of the union, had originally demanded boosting the top daily wage to $50 and to at least double the royalty payments, plus other contract improvements including sick pay for the first time.

The strike has halted virtually all production of the soft coal in the nation's more than 20 coal producing states and both sides have warned that dwindling stockpiles of public utility companies could result in electric power shortages this winter if a settlement does not soon get coal production going again.

Speculation of a possible industry contract offer was also fed by a meeting of the board of directors of U.S. Steel Corp. in Pittsburgh Tuesday, followed by a board meeting of the Bituminous Coal Operators group last night.

The steel industry has heavy interests in coal, which is used in steel-making blast furnaces, and Vice Chairman R. Heath Larry of U.S. Steel is also chief negotiator for the coal association.

Wildcat Strike Briefly Idles 360 Bell Telephone Employees

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Bell Telephone Co. said 360 employees at two of its facilities here were idled briefly Wednesday by a wildcat strike by telephone operators.

The company said the operators struck prior to the day shift at its main office building and Seton Hill Drive office. Business and accounting personnel honored picket lines.

However, Bell reported the pickets had been withdrawn by 12:30 p.m. and that the employees had returned to work.

The company claimed it had received no official complaint from the striking operators, members of Local 1944 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

However, a Bell spokesman said some of the pickets had said they were displeased with what they claimed was an unfair promotion.

Operator assistance and business calls were the hardest hit services during the walkout.

Jury Finds Rossman Guilty Of Possession Of Marijuana

By BETTY RICE

A criminal jury found the defendant guilty following a trial Wednesday. Arthur Rossman was charged by the Commonwealth with possession of marijuana, a charge which Assistant District Attorney John Eberly advised in his opening statement is often "difficult to prove."

State Police Trooper William Dudinack was the first witness to testify for the prosecution. He stated that on July 17, he received a phone call from a "confidential source" saying the person knew where a quantity of drugs was stashed. The caller agreed to deliver the drugs to Dudinack and brought the items to the trooper in Loblaws' parking lot in Market Street Plaza.

Dudinack testified that a sample of what appeared to be marijuana was field tested in his presence by Criminal Investigator Myron Fernstrom. Both are attached to the Warren substation. The substance, in Fernstrom's opinion was marijuana and was taken from a zip-lock plastic bag which also contained 13 orange colored pills and a syringe.

The packet of drugs was then replaced in the area where found - a trash barrel at Warren airport and troopers set up a stakeout. At 2:25 p.m. July 17, Dudinack said, a car pulled up, a person got out and removed the packet of drugs. Placed under arrest was Dennis J. Massa, 24, of RD 1, Clarendon.

According to the testimony, Massa, after conferring with his attorney, gave a full statement to police implicating Rossman.

Massa, also a Commonwealth witness, took the stand next.

Massa told the jury that at 9:30 a.m., July 16, he received a telephone call from Rossman asking for a ride to the court house for a court appearance. Massa said he agreed since he planned to go "to town" anyway. After picking Rossman up, the witness said the defendant stated he didn't have to be in court until 11 a.m.

During the interim, Massa said he went to the unemployment office to sign for his check while Rossman remained in the car. Upon returning to his vehicle, Massa said Rossman had the plastic bag containing the alleged drugs, asked Massa to keep it for him until after court, was turned down; asked to be taken back to his home to leave the packet there; was taken to his residence by Massa but since his father was there couldn't leave the packet there.

Massa testified that the two drove to Warren airport and since Rossman had "a bad leg, I helped him hide the packet in a trash barrel." The witness said he then took the defendant to the court house and went home.

The following day (July 17) Massa stated Rossman called him to ask if he had taken the marijuana from the airport because it was no longer there. Massa denied any knowledge of the drug's disappearance during this call and another 15 minutes later from Rossman, asking the same question.

Rossman, Massa testified, expressed concern that some little kids might find the drug.

Massa then stated he told Rossman he would go to the airport to see if the packet was there but "wouldn't get it" for the defendant. He confirmed Dudinack's testimony in regard to finding the plastic bag in a can, his arrest and subsequent statement to police, which, he said Wednesday, was substantially the same as his testimony in court.

During cross examination by defense counsel W. Scott Calderwood, Massa testified that during their conversation about the drug, Rossman "said it was grass." He admitted coming in contact with marijuana in Vietnam and having smoked it at one time. He also admitted his arrest in connection with the case, being charged with accessory after the fact in a felony and his subsequent sentencing.

Fernstrom explained the field test used to determine if the suspect substance was marijuana, stating his findings were definitely affirmative.

The defense called as its only witness, Earl T. Rossman, also of 1123 Pennsylvania ave. west, father of the defendant. He stated that on July 16, he was in the court house with his son before 10 a.m. and that Arthur, who was being arraigned on another charge, remained in the court house until noon. The father said he did not come to the court house with his son but met him there. He added he didn't know how his son got to the court house.

In his closing statement to the jury, Calderwood discussed the term "possession," noting that on July 17 at the Warren airport, Massa had possession of the marijuana but was not charged with possession of the drug. He also pointed out that Massa's attorney at the time of his arrest was the public defender, his cousin, Joseph Massa and mentioned as well,

Where Are All The Flowers Going?

By JOE WING

The wildflowers haven't all gone yet, but the highway engineers, developers, farmers, dam builders, pipeline people and others are hurrying them along.

Like some birds and beasts, some wildflowers can't stand civilization. Unlike the birds and beasts, flowers are unable to run away. Nor have they an active national conservation organization devoted specifically to their preservation.

lady's slipper, pitcher plant, showy orchis, trailing arbutus, trillium, wild columbine, wood sorrel, fringed gentian, Indian pipe, swamp rose mallow, wood lily and yellow false foxgloves.

There's a rule of thumb, cited by Frank Knight of the New York Botanical Garden, which suggests you may pick (not pull up) one flower if there are six or more in an area of six square feet. He adds that there should be no collecting of spring flowers in woodlands.

But as for flower pickers, they are a slight threat compared with the bulldozer. Dr. Edgar T. Wherry of Philadelphia, a retired ecology consultant now 86 years old, and honorary national president of the national Wildlife Preservation Society, says construction crews kill far more wildflowers than all the flower-picking children in the country.

Aside from the New England lists, various states have put together lists of flowers to be protected. Some have backed up the lists with laws. Every state has designated a state flower, although about a fifth of these are alien rather than native blooms. There is some talk of making the goldenrod, which is the state flower for both Kentucky and Nebraska, the national flower.

Of course a large portion of our best known blooms, such as Queen Anne's lace, dandelion, buttercup and white daisy, have been imported. Hundreds of alien species established themselves here after being brought over intentionally or accidentally, starting with the earliest settlers. Some of them have provided disastrous competition for the native plants. This contrasts with the handful of birds, such as starling and English sparrow, that have become naturalized immigrants, along with a very few animals, notably the brown rat.

Rare plants are likely to be ones that tolerate only a limited habitat. To save them therefore it is necessary to preserve the kind of habitat they like, whether it be

Maryland Golden Star

It is odd that they do not, because flowers are closer to the hearts of a great many Americans than the wild animals they hardly ever see or the birds that won't stand still to be examined. Varieties of flowers are numbered in the thousands, moreover, whereas bird species can be found only in the hundreds.

There does exist a national Wildlife Preservation Society but even in its heyday it had only a few hundred members and it is now largely moribund. Compare that with the hundreds of thousands and even millions of members that some of our conservation organizations boast.

Of course many of these organizations, such as the Audubon Society, the Sierra Club and the National Wildlife Federation, have taken all nature as their provinces. Whatever they and others do to encourage the preservation of natural habitats is a blow struck for wildflowers.

One vigorous offshoot of the national preservation society—the New England Wildflower Preservation Society—has a couple of thousand members. It owns or controls nine wildflower areas, maintains a library, conducts field trips, holds nature workshops for parents and teachers, and distributes leaflets on wildflowers and conservation.

While there is no national list of endangered flowers, as there is of endangered birds and beasts, the New England society has put out one for flowers in special need of conservation in that area, as well as state lists. The trouble with compiling a master list for the nation would be that a flower rare in one locality may very well be common in another.

The society notes that no wild orchid should be picked or uprooted and that all alpine plants should be guarded. Most of the species on the list, especially those with spring and summer blooms, are found in woodlands. Summer and fall flowers listed can be found in meadows, swamps and arid areas, as well as woodlands.

Included are bloodroot, Dutchman's breeches, early saxifrage, jack-in-the-pulpit.

PARADE OF THE ANTS

Among ants there are "cuckoo queens" that start their own colonies by first slipping past the guards of an established colony belonging to another species, taking possession of the legitimate queen's eggs and finally murdering her.

A poison gas attack of formic acid is used by certain ants to fight off rivals.

Ants have separate stomachs or crops in which food is stored for the benefit of the colony, if needed.

Some ants maintain aphids as "cows" from which they obtain sweet secretions, others grow fungus and assign a special caste of gardeners to that task.

Ants have been known to build a sanded causeway across flypaper to avoid its stickiness.

Slave owning ants cannot live without their slaves to feed and care for them; scientists consider them ripe for extinction.

The only living beings able to stand up successfully to army ants are certain other ant species.

Blunt-tooth Blanket Flower

swamp, prairie, deep woodland or high mountain range. On the other hand it is beneficial to certain plants to cut back competing vegetation. And as woods are burned or felled, and as ponds become swamps and then meadows, there is a constant natural succession of plants.

Uncontrolled deer populations, as well as overgrazing by cattle and sheep, have made inroads on the habitats of some rare flowers. Even the air they breathe also has an effect on plants. An eminent Canadian authority, Dr. Irwin M. Brode, writes that "even with small quantities of toxic substances in the air, lichens soon die and disintegrate." Humidity also is important.

One promising approach to the preservation of wildflowers is growing them under artificial conditions. That has been tried with rare birds and animals too but in such cases the end product—pampered specimens unable to shift for themselves in the wild—leave much to be desired. On the other hand a cultivated wildflower loses none of its ability to take once more to the wild.

Not only do many arbore-tums grow wildflowers and exchange or distribute seeds, but a number of commercial growers are in the business, and the garden clubs actively encourage the practice.

One commercial grower, Senator George D. Aiken of Vermont, once wrote a book in which he said "Many species are now making a gallant last stand in the face of extermination. If some are to be saved, it must be through the prompt action of our people. We must learn to propagate and grow all worthwhile species."

That is a program that amateurs can get our teeth into. The next time there is a development or new highway in your area, see what wildflowers you can rescue.

Halloween has hit the county court house. On the bulletin board outside the county agent's office, a display of ghosts and goblins depicting extension personnel are suspended from a haunted house. But the real prize is Bernie Wingert's "fat cat," the one whose weight allegedly determines what kind of a winter we're going to face. The district attorney's office also has suitable decorations.

Long hair can cause neck and back pains, according to a California chiropractor. Dr. Ted Frigard told a meeting of the Ontario Chiropractic Association that he discovered what he called the "snap-a-neck" syndrome after treating 100 long-haired California high schoolers. He said students who constantly flipped their heads back to keep hair off their faces were plagued by neck and back pains, and headaches. His solution: "Take them to a chiropractor for adjustment, and then march them to a barber."

Dial-a-Drink. A Titusville restaurant has installed a computer bar for push-button blending.

Every now and again a typographical error slips into our paper. Usually the mistake is minor... but on occasion it's downright hysterical. Yesterday morning, in the story on Jamestown, N.Y., we described James Byington as the former "social director" of Kendree and Shepherd Planning Consultants. Actually Jim is the former "local director" of that organization, even though most consider him socially amicable he's never officially directed the socializing of others.

Actually it could have been worse... we might have called him the former "loco director."

A couple of weeks ago the Borough Police picked up a stray tan-and-white police-type dog that was found wandering around the streets in a sickly condition. They took the dog to Dr. Arthur H. Davis, the Dartmouth st. veterinarian, who nursed it back to health. Dr. Davis called yesterday and said the five-month-old pup has totally recovered and is looking for a permanent home. He described the dog as a well-mannered animal that will eventually grow to the medium-to-large size range. Interested persons can inquire by calling Dr. Davis' office at 723-3334.

Shapp Names Pittenger Secretary Of Education

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shapp, promising a major shakeup in the Department of Education, Wednesday nominated John C. Pittenger as secretary of education.

Pittenger, 41, who must be confirmed by the Senate, would replace Dr. David H. Kurtzman, 67. Pittenger, a former House member, currently is Shapp's special assistant for legislation. Kurtzman has served in the $30,000-a-year cabinet position since 1967.

Shapp also announced appointment of Ralph Tive, counsel to majority Senate Democrats, to replace Pittenger as Shapp's Legislative Assistant. In a formal announcement at a news conference, the governor said he received a letter of resignation from Kurtzman. But under questioning, he admitted Kurtzman was fired.

Kurtzman said Tuesday he had not been notified by Shapp of his impending ouster. Shapp gave a different story to news-men Wednesday: that he told Kurtzman of his decision last week.

Offering a hint of what was coming in the Education Department, Shapp commented: "I have instructed John Pittenger to get into the operation of the department and put an end to the construction of unnecessary and unnecessarily costly school and college building programs."

"It shall be the strong emphasis of this administration to put the scarce dollars available into quality education, not into the quantity of buildings. Also, we must start to put flexibility into our school system."

"This is a difficult set of priorities. It will involve some major shakeups within the department and in our schools and colleges. But it's a shakeup long overdue that must take place."

Asked why he decided not to retain Kurtzman, Shapp said, "The remaining things that have to be done involve...using some pressure, knocking some heads together, if necessary."

"Dr. Kurtzman has about a year-and-a-half to go for retirement, and I do not think someone...looking forward to retirement can tackle the difficult job I think is necessary to streamline the department of education and get things moving."

Shapp said much of local school costs come about because of decisions made in Harrisburg.

"We have to take a look at the whole process to allow the local schools to do a better job," Shapp said. "I think you can expect that after John Pittenger has been in office that he will start shaping the department along different lines."

The governor said he wanted Pittenger to replace the Ralph Nader of education, serving the needs of school children.

Shapp added he did not make the change when his administration took office in January because he needed Pittenger to handle his legislative program. Pittenger played a key role in engineering the governor's income tax programs through the legislature.

Pittenger said one of his major goals was to decentralize the department. "We can be a lot more helpful if we put some of the experts in the department out in the field where they can be more helpful to the local superintendents, principals and teachers," he said.

He also suggested such innovative approaches as year-round schools, open classrooms without straight rows of desks, and using students to teach other students.

Clinic Canceled

The clinic for Warren Area High School majorettes, originally scheduled for Saturday, has been cancelled. A new date, probably in the spring, will be announced.

Redistricting Plan For House Approved

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Reapportionment Commission Wednesday agreed on a redistricting plan for the Pennsylvania House, sources reported.

The five-member commission gave unanimous approval to all but three areas of the state: Beaver County, Armstrong County and Philadelphia. The votes on the disputed areas were 3-2, with the non-partisan commission chairman, A. Leo Levin, siding with the Democrats.

Philadelphia's 35 House seats would be reduced by one. The suburban areas of Bucks and Chester counties would pick up one seat, and suburban Montgomery County would gain two seats. The York-Cumberland county area would gain a House member.

Pittsburgh would lose two seats, but the Allegheny County suburbs would gain one, leaving the county with a net loss of one.

The U.S. House redistricting is handled by the state legislature, which has not completed a plan. The number of Pennsylvania seats will drop from 27 to 25 because of population decline in relation to other states.

The number of state House seats remain at 203 and State Senate seats at 50. But the boundaries must change, and that's handled by the five-member commission.

In addition to Levin, a law professor at the University of Pennsylvania, commission members are Kenneth B. Lee, state House Republican floor leader; James F. Prendergast, House Democratic whip; Thomas F. Lamb, Senate Democratic floor leader and Sen. Richard A. Tilghman, R-Montgomery.

"Under this plan, both parties have a chance to take the House in any given year," Lee commented. "It depends on the candidates and who's on the top of the ticket."

"The population shifts are mostly in areas where Republicans have the strongest basis of support—in suburban areas."

Lee said there was not a great deal of "gerrymandering," in which one party draws districts specifically to exclude the other party.

"Over-all, it's a fair plan," Lee said.

The approved House plan, in the Beaver County area, could pit Democratic incumbent Charles D. Stone against Republican incumbent Robert O. Davis, if both run again for the House.

In the Armstrong County area, Republican incumbent John B. McCue could run against C. Doyle Steele, holder of a Democratic seat.

Philadelphia's 35 House seats would be reduced by one. The suburban areas of Montgomery and Bucks counties each would pick up a seat.

Pittsburgh also would lose a seat, but the Allegheny County suburbs would gain one.

The state and U.S. districts are being reapportioned under the U.S. Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote decision. Each House seat must have 58,098 residents, each Senate seat 235,878 and each U.S. House district 471,576.

Police To Be Inoculated; Exposed To Hepatitis

PITTSBURGH (AP)—At least ten members of the suburban Upper St. Clair police force were exposed to infectious hepatitis during a drug raid and must be inoculated within the next few days, officials said Wednesday.

Twenty persons, ranging in age from 17 to 26, were arrested in the raid at a private home Tuesday night, and police said doctors reported two of them had severe cases of the disease—which can result from use of unsterilized needles.

"One of the guys (suspects) had been released from the hospital on the condition that he would stay home and avoid contact with other people," said Patrolman Robert Samuels.

"He looked very bad when we got him down to the station and that's when we contacted the doctor."

The other patrolmen were either exposed to the disease during the raid or at the station.

"The doctor told me the disease takes six to seven days to incubate before you become a carrier," said Samuels. "So if we get the shots now we don't have to worry about our families or anything."

Meanwhile, all of those arrested were charged with visiting a disorderly house and 17 were charged with drug violations, police said.

Nineteen were released on $2,000 bond each and a juvenile was turned over to the custody of his parents.

Police said assorted pills, suspected marijuana and heroin were confiscated in the raid.

Shapp Expected To Sign Officials' Pay Raise Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — The legislature corrected two bills providing pay raises for local officials Wednesday and sent them to the governor.

Gov. Shapp was expected to sign them before Tuesday's election.

One measure would hike salaries of county row officers throughout the state, except Philadelphia. Higher pay would apply for commissioners, sheriffs, district attorneys, treasurers, controllers, recorders of deeds, court clerks, coroners, auditors and jury commissioners.

The other bill raises pay of mayors and councilmen in third class cities covered under the optional city charter law.

The changes on both bills involved altering the effective dates so they would apply to officials elected next week. The county bill had been written to take effect on the first Monday in January; the change would make it apply as soon as the governor signs it.

Reason for the change is that elected officials generally are not eligible for a pay raise that is enacted during their term of office. Court cases recently have held that the terms begin on election day, rather than the day the officer is sworn in.

Another change, made on both bills, deleted a clause that would have delayed the pay increase in the event of a federal wage restriction. House Majority Leader K. Leroy Irvy, D-Allegheny, said federal restrictions would pre-empt a state law anyway and the clause might confuse the timing of the bill.

In the only other legislative action, the House recommitted a bill that would have required the use of American made steel on public construction projects. The bill which had passed the legislature previously was sent to the Business and Commerce Committee.

A spokesman for the House Democratic staff said some language in the bill might have an impact on federal funds on works projects and this had to be corrected.

The House and Senate had been in recess for the election and Wednesday's session was called only because of the timing on the pay bills. Both houses adjourned until Nov. 8.

Bomb-Kidnap Lawyers To Drop Key Motion

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Attorneys for eight antiwar activists accused of a federal bomb-kidnap plot indicated Wednesday they would not seek an immediate court test of an illegal surveillance motion they filed last spring.

More than a dozen motions were scheduled for argument Thursday before U.S. District Judge R. Dixon Herman, but one of the key ones apparently won't come up.

"Even if the court ruled in favor of a pretrial hearing on electronic surveillance, it would be impossible to have a hearing at this time," said one of the defense attorneys. "We would have to subpoena many witnesses and it would be impossible to do it within two days."

Herman, after a conference with attorneys for both sides three weeks ago set aside only Thursday and Friday for disposing of all outstanding motions.

The defense has contended throughout the bizarre case that most of the government's evidence was gleaned through wiretapping. The government has indicated that if there was wiretapping, it was legal. This was to have been one of the focal points of the entire case.

The electronic surveillance motion was to be argued by Ramsey Clark, a former U.S. attorney general. He is one of seven attorneys scheduled to argue the defense motions in the next two days.

Herman wants to get the motions resolved so that the trial can start early in January.

The case involves an alleged conspiracy masterminded by antiwar Roman Catholic clergy to kidnap Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's foreign affairs adviser, blow up heating tunnels in Washington, D.C., and raid draft boards along the eastern seaboard.

The two key figures in the case are the Rev. Phillip Berrigan, 49, now imprisoned for raiding a draft board at Catonsville, Md., and Sister Elizabeth McAlister, 31, Upper Montclair, N.J., who allegedly exchanged letters outlining a plot.

Others indicted are Egbal Ahmad, 40, a Pakistani national; John T. Glick, 22, free on bond on appeal of a sentence for raiding a federal building in Rochester, N.Y.; the Revs. Joseph Wenderoth, 35, and Neil McLaughlin, 30, Baltimore priests; and Anthony Scoblick, 30, and his wife Mary, 32, respectively a former priest and $120,000 FOR ISLAND LONDON (AP)—The small island of Erraid off the west coast of Scotland, once the home of writer Robert Louis Stevenson, has been sold for more than $120,000. The island covers 600 acres.

Stevenson, famous for such masterpieces as Treasure Island and The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, died in 1894.

Getting those little ghosts and goblins to sit still for an evening meal on Halloween takes some doing. What's called for is a wee bit of wizardry in the form of cleverly fashioned favorite foods. And these Tricky Turnover Treats are guaranteed to enchant even the most impatient of youngsters. A kind of all-in-one cheeseburger — a never fail dish — the Turnovers are a cinch to make and nutritious too.

A filling of ground beef and cheese, seasoned with nippy prepared yellow mustard is encased in a crust made with refrigerator biscuits. One recipe makes ten Jack-o-lanterns, enough to satisfy five hungry trick-or-treaters. Perfect go-alongs, in Halloween colors, are crisp carrot sticks and shiny black olives. Top off the meal with ice cream and lightly-spiced, not-too-sweet Pumpkin Brownies. A little magic in the form of instant mashed potato granules makes the cake moist so what's left will keep well.

With glasses of cider, this suggested menu is a balanced meal providing servings from each of the Basic Four Food Groups youngsters, and the rest of us, need daily to keep fit.

TRICKY TURNOVER TREATS
1/2 pound ground beef
1 tablespoon Minced Onion
1/4 cup prepared yellow mustard
4 ounces Mozzarella cheese, cut in cubes
2 cans (8-oz. each) refrigerator buttermilk biscuits
1 egg, slightly beaten
Brown ground beef in skillet; stir in minced onion, mustard, and cheese. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until cheese melts. Roll out each biscuit with a rolling pin to a 3-inch circle. Spoon ground beef filling onto 10 biscuits. Cut pumpkin faces in remaining 10 biscuits; place over ground beef mixture and press edges of dough together to seal. To make stems for pumpkins, use the pieces of dough that were left from the face cut-outs. Place on ungreased baking sheet; brush with slightly beaten egg. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes until golden brown. 5 servings.

PUMPKIN BROWNIES
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/4 cup (1/2 of 5-serving envelope) Instant Mashed Potato granules
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Ground Cinnamon
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 egg
3/4 cup canned pumpkin
1/2 cup chopped pecans
Sift together flour, potato granules, baking powder, salt, and cinnamon. Melt butter or margarine; stir in sugar, egg, and pumpkin. Add sifted ingredients and nuts. Stir until well blended. Pour into greased 9-inch square pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Cut into 36 squares.

Colleen Moore On Today's Fashions:

"People look as though they're dressed for Halloween"

By Angela Taylor N. Y. Times Service
New York — "Don't worry, girls. No edict of fashion arbiters will ever swathe you in long and cumbersome skirts ... the American girl will see to this. She is independent, a thinker (who) will not follow slavishly the ordinances of those, who in the past, have decreed this or that for her to wear."

The date was 1925. The author, Colleen Moore, of the one blue eye and one brown eye, was the first movie flapper. As such, she was to be at the vanguard of the most important fashion revolution of the century, when skirts rose above the knee, bosoms vanished and waistlines slid down to the hips. After she appeared in "Flaming Youth" in 1923, women were never to look the same again. Her Dutch bob was copied in every village and hamlet and so was her pert, emancipated air.

These days, Colleen Moore laughs at the purported naughtiness of the flapper. "Actually all she did was drink a cocktail and smoke a cigarette in public. Underneath, she was a good girl."

Still, the new word (supposedly derived from the flapping, open galoshes of the time) upset the Camp-Fire Girls enough for them to object publicly to the use of "flapper." They wanted the new generation to be known as "Modern."

Miss Moore is 69, her dark hair is straight, and without the bangs she wore in "Flaming Youth," but it is still ear-length. And her new black dress from Bill Blass with its white collar and cuffs looks familiar — "Oh, I've worn many dresses like this one."

Having watched the Nineteen-twenties, the Thirties and the Forties come back into style these past few years, how does she feel?

Most of the revivals have been too costume for her: "People look as though they're dressed for Halloween," she says.

Just as in 1925, she disliked the recent wave of midcalf skirts. "I felt old and dowdy in the mid, I shortened mine to knee length."

Her favorite memory is the black net flapper dress Howard Greer designed for "Flaming Youth," but her favorite design period, she says, was that of the Thirties, "when the waist came up and hems were just below the knee." She loves to wear pants in California and is amused that the young think they've dreamed up the fad for blue jeans.

After all, she wore jeans as far back as 1917, when she came to Hollywood at 15 to be another Lillian Gish. Instead, she found herself playing pure-as-snow heroines in silent westerns with Tom Mix, where she always came out second best to his horse, Tony.

The jeans were fine, but she got pretty tired of the curls she had to put up herself and the gingham dresses she wore when she wasn't on horseback. At her mother's suggestion, she cut off the curls in 1923 and landed the part of the flapper.

"Flaming Youth" was banned in Boston, a fact that brings a burst of laughter from the first flapper, but it got her a string of Charleston dancing parts. Clara Bow was to make her own splash soon as the "It" girl, but the queen of flapperdom was still the 98-pound, curvaceous Irish girl who started out life as Kathleen Morrison in Port Huron, Mich., and who grew up in Tampa, Fla., where her father was in the machinery business.

Under the tutelage of designer Janet Sondheim she learned to look both all-American and very chic. A photograph of her taken with James J. Walker, then Mayor of New York, shows her in a handkerchief-pointed chiffon dress that has had any number of revivals since 1928.

She is still passionately interested in clothes and is looking forward to her new house in Paso Robles, Calif.

Miss Moore quit the movies in 1937, when she married her third husband, Homer Hargrave, a Chicago broker. Hargrave, who died in 1967, taught his wife enough about money for her to write a book, "How Women Can Make Money In The Stock Market," and to also join a leading brokerage house.

Homer, Remington, Inness Paintings On Display At Jamestown Gallery

Rediscovered oil paintings by three of America's greatest painters, Homer, Remington and Inness, are included in an American exhibit through November at Hemingway Galleries, 201 Lafayette street, Jamestown, New York. The exhibit of 19th and early 20th century paintings, drawings and engravings by nearly 100 artists also features the investigation that uncovered the works of Winslow Homer, Frederic Remington and George Inness.

Frank Hemingway, who heads the galleries, commented "These three paintings, owned by us, are probably now receiving their first 20th century public showing, and much credit for this goes to our research consultant, William Douglas Hanny. Many others helped find answers to questions during the investigation. Rochester and local radiography brought out the Homer signature and 1874 date, also showed indications of two earlier figures in his painting. Remington's 1893 published description of a Mexican hacienda visit refers to the uncharacteristic type of man and bird found in this work, and a Mexican colloquial dictionary clarified his ambiguous title. An English panorama artist's 1852 visit to the U.S. gave reason for a second name on the Inness work. Published material on the artist's works and special cooperation at the museum level helped relate the three paintings to other works by each artist."

The Homer work, "Man with Basket in Orchard," is an 1874 oil on canvas. The Remington painting, "Mexican Indian Grooming Game Cock," is an 1893 oil on panel. The Inness "Hudson River Landscape" is an oil on canvas board done about 1852.

REDISCOVERED REMINGTON PAINTING

Other American artists represented in Hemingway's "Collectors Choice" exhibit include John Taylor Arms, Frederick Arthur Bridgeman, Daniel Putnam Brinley, Pop Chalee, Colin Campbell Cooper, Charlotte Buell Coman, James Montgomery Flagg, Charles Dana Gibson, Albert Lorey Groll, Charles Paul Gruppe, Thomas Hill and Lars Hoftrup. Also represented are Troy Kinney, Aston Knight, Susan Ricker Knox, John A. Maxwell,

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 23, my fiance is 24. His mother is the problem. She is 42 years old and looks very good for her age. (She should. She has had everything lifted, and I do mean everything.)

My fiance's mother has a thing about running around half naked. She does her housework in a bikini (winter as well as summer) because she says it gives her freedom. If she is wearing a housecoat for dinner it is never buttoned all the way. She manages to be falling out, just a little. Last night she cooked supper in a bra and half-slip and sat down to the table in that outfit, only she tucked a napkin in her bra.

My fiance has two brothers, one 20, another 17. I've heard them all suggest to their mother that she put some clothes on but she ignores them. Why is she like this and what can be done?—SKIN FLICK AT HOME

DEAR S.F.: She is like that because she is one of those seductive Moms who should have had a little counseling a few years ago. What can be done? Nothing, probably, except a concerted effort by the three boys to get Madame Pompadour to cover up at least when guests are present.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My girl friend's parents raised her like she was Princess Margaret. She knows how to dress, look pretty and make social conversation. That's where her talents end. She takes no interest in anybody or anything but herself. No housework, no cooking, no public service, or, heaven forbid, a job.

I think I love this girl and would marry her if I thought she would change and be a helpmate instead of a rock around my neck. I am writing this letter from Vietnam and will send it to the Memphis Commercial Appeal. I hope you will answer in the paper. Mom clips your columns and sends them every week. I'll be home in 60 days and I need to know your opinion before I leave here. What do you think, Ann?—G.I. JOE

DEAR JOE: I think the letter was not written by you, but by your mother. It came directly from Memphis. If your mother has described the girl accurately, you've got some tall thinking to do. Good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to say a word to friends and relatives who think they are being helpful, but who do more harm than good. After 14 years of marriage my husband and I agreed to a legal separation. In our crowd "legal separation" is viewed as the forerunner to divorce. What our friends do not know is that we are trying for a reconciliation.

If they would leave me alone and not try to "make me feel better" by telling me how lucky I am to be rid of the dog—that they've known for years he was a bum—etc., I'd appreciate it. I am aware, also, that some of my "well-intentioned" friends have been going to my husband and telling him how lucky he is to be rid of me, that everyone has known for a long time we were not making it. Then they offer to fix him up with a sex bomb.

Real friends do what they can to get separated people together—they do not try to finalize the split.—SOUR APPLES IN APPLETON

DEAR APPLES: Solve your own problem by making the subject of your separation "off limits." I suspect you are one of those people who should have heeded the old Scottish proverb, "Don't spit in a well. Ye might wan' to drink from it."

Elder Burton To Speak At Kane Chapel

ELDER BURTON

On Nov. 2, 1971, Elder Theodore M. Burton, one of the General Authorities of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon), is to be in Kane to speak to 100 missionaries at the Thomas L. Kane Memorial Chapel. George M. Baker, President of the Pennsylvania Mission, which is one of 100 Church-correlated Missions throughout the world, is also to be present. President Baker is from Walnut Creek, Calif. where he was a prominent businessman. He and his wife are to be in Pennsylvania for a three-year period after which they expect to return to California.

Elder Burton is arriving from Salt Lake City to speak to the missionaries in Pennsylvania at four locations in the State: Kane, Pittsburgh, Sunbury, and Harrisburg.

Elder Burton, who is an Assistant to the Council of Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, has supervision over Eastern America and Southeast American Missions: Cumorah, Eastern States both in New York State, New England, Ontario-Quebec, Pennsylvania, Alabama-Florida, Florida South, Georgia-South Carolina, Delaware-Maryland, Kentucky-Tennessee, and North Carolina-Virginia.

Elder Burton was called to his present position in the Church Oct. 8, 1960. Prior to his calling, he served as a missionary in the Swiss-German Mission, from 1927 to 1930. In 1957, he returned to Europe to preside over the Church Mission in West Germany for three years as President of the European Mission.

In his private life, Elder Burton has earned B.A. and M.A. degrees at the University of Utah and obtained his Doctorate at Purdue University in

O'Neill Drama Shown At Bradford Tonight

Thursday evening, Oct. 28, the University of Pittsburgh at Bradford will host the Vanguard Theater's performance of "LONG DAY'S JOURNEY INTO NIGHT" by Eugene O'Neill. The performance will be presented at the Bradford Area Senior High School auditorium with curtain time promptly at 8:15 p.m.

UNLIKELY FRIEND

Dwayne Redlin portrays a young boy lost in the woods who is befriended by a killer wild cat in this scene from Joseph E.
Levine's color adventure drama, "The Cat," opening Saturday,
Oct. 30, at the Library Theatre. The movie co-stars Barry Coe, Roger Perry and Peggy Ann Garner.

O'Neill Play Here Friday; Rated 'Dramatic Event'

When the Warren Campus of Edinboro State College presents
the Vanguard Theatre Company of Pittsburgh on Friday,
October 29, at Beatty
Auditorium, in Eugene O'Neill's
"Long Day's Journey into Night," it will mark the first opportunity in several years for Warren's play-going public to see a professional dramatic production on a local stage.

Vanguard is a professional touring group with nearly ten years of experience to its credit, having appeared before more than half-a-million people since 1962, in western Pennsylvania,
Ohio, and West Virginia. This will be its first appearance in Warren, although it has been seen in Erie, Bradford, and Edinboro in this area.

The play itself won the Pulitzer Prize for its author posthumously in 1956. It has been widely hailed as one of

O'Neill's masterpieces and one of America's greatest dramas.
"Long Day's Journey into Night" draws heavily on autobiographical material, the play's Tyrone family closely paralleling the family of O'Neill. O'Neill won Pulitzer prizes for three other plays, and in 1936 was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature.

Richard Andersen, English and Drama professor at Warren
Campus, terms this truly a
"dramatic event" for Warren,
"a unique opportunity that this theatre-conscious community will not want to miss."

Anderson invites the public to procure tickets at Putnam's Book Store, or to call the Warren Campus at 726-0291 for reservations. There will also be tickets available at the door at Beatty Junior High School the evening of the performance, this Friday at 8:30 p.m.

Andy Yurick, 40-Player Cast Set For 'Fiddler On The Roof'

Andy Yurick of 110 Jefferson st. will headline a cast of nearly 40 local amateurs for the November Warren Players production of "Fiddler on the Roof", according to John Check, director of the popular musical.

Yurick, who just last season played the part of Michael in "I Do, I Do," is no stranger to the players' club stage. In recent years he's also starred in
"Music Man", "Stalag 17" and
"My Fair Lady."

In "Fiddler" he plays the part of Tevye, a Russian Jew dairymen and husband of Golde, portrayed by Lois Byham. Tevye is the father of five daughters; Tzeitel (Marsha
Petzold), Hodel (Barbara
Larson), Chava (Chris
Billstone), Shprintze (Sally
Petruzzi) and Bielke (Madalyn Levinson).

Throughout the play Tevye watches his children ignore the old traditions -- a theme that has strong parallels even today.
Tzeitel starts it all off by refusing to marry the wealthy butcher Lazar Wolf (Dick Andersen), even though the marriage had been arranged by the Matchmaker, Yente, (Mickey Conroy). Instead she weds Motel (Joe Donick) the poor tailor.

Later Hodel runs off to marry
Perchik, a student, (Robert Seiden) who has been sent to Siberia for his revolutionary ideals. A third daughter, Chava, runs off with non-Jew Fyedka (Dan Otterbein).

Other characters in the play
are Mordcha, an innkeeper
(Richard Swick); the Rabbi
(Rev. Richard Baker); Mendel,
the Rabbi's son (Jim Senger);
Avraham, a bookseller (Murry Quiggle); Nachum, a beggar
(Bob Hunt); and Granma
Tzeitel (Ruth Strange).

Also: Fruma Sarah, Lazar

Wolf's first wife (Carolyn Gnage); Shandel, Motel's mother (Jane Munn); the Fiddler (Jim Swick); Yussel, a hatter (Jack Donaldson); Sasha, Fyedka's friend (Denny
Simon) and the Constable (Bill Anderson).

Members of the chorus are Cheryl Mastrian, Pat Waples, Marlene Mickelson, Pam
Strange, Candy Huber, Petey
Sommers, Steve Yurick, Gary
Swick, Doug Nelson, Jim Munn,
George Cunningham Jr., John
Sutter, Ron Probst, Don Probst,
Kevin Heeter and Mark Hulse.

Alice Yurick is producing the musical, which will be staged
Friday and Saturday evenings,
November 12 and 13 at the
Beatty Junior High School Auditorium. Helen McDonald is in charge of choreography and Jane Place is choral director.

Single show and season
tickets are now on sale at Chiodo's Pharmacy and the B and B Smoke Shop.

Congress And Cancer Funding

By MICHAEL A. CARSON
Congressional Quarterly
WASHINGTON — A great debate is taking place in Washington over how best to organize a multimillion dollar government campaign to conquer cancer.

Money to start the new cancer program—$100 million appropriated by Congress in May—is ready and waiting for the debate to be resolved.

The conflict over organization of the cancer program involves two bills before Congress which organize the program differently. One of the bills has passed the Senate and the other will be considered by the House soon.

The Dispute
The role of the cancer program in relation to the National Institutes of Health (NIH) is a major factor in the dispute.

NIH, located in the Washington suburb of Bethesda, Md., is the federal government's principal biological and medical research agency. The primary disagreement between the Senate and House cancer bills is whether the cancer agency should be independent of NIH and have a director reporting directly to the President.

The Senate cancer bill, which is supported by the Administration, passed the Senate July 7 by a 79-1 vote. The bill would establish an independent Conquest of Cancer Agency at NIH. The agency would be headed by a presidentially appointed director reporting directly to the President. The existing National Cancer Institute located at NIH would be absorbed by the new cancer agency.

Senate Compromise
The Senate cancer bill was a compromise between an Administration proposal and a bill sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, chairman of the Senate Health Subcommittee, and Sen. Jacob K. Javits. The Administration's major concern was the provision for a presidentially appointed director of the Conquest of Cancer Agency who reported directly to the President. Kennedy and Javits were chiefly interested in a cancer agency operated independently of NIH.

The cancer bill supported by the Senate and the Administration is similar to the recommendation of a Panel of Consultants on the Conquest of Cancer. The panel was established by the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee in 1970 to conduct a comprehensive study on how best to organize a cancer research program. It called for establishment of an independent agency to coordinate a national crusade against cancer and recommended that the programs and authorities of the National Cancer Institute at NIH be transferred to the independent agency.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, a Wisconsin Democrat, cast the only dissenting vote against the Senate cancer bill because he opposed creation of an independent cancer research agency. "The bill spells the future demise of the cohesive agency known as the NIH", Nelson said.

House Proposal
The House Public Health and Environment Subcommittee Oct. 14 unanimously reported a cancer bill significantly different from the Senate version.

The bill proposed by the House subcommittee would strengthen the National Cancer Institute of NIH to provide it with the capability to conduct a national cancer attack program. The National Cancer Institute would remain within the NIH organizational structure.

The director of the National Cancer Institute would be appointed by the President and would serve as an associate director of NIH who reports to the director of NIH. The proposed bill would authorize a total of $1.59 billion in fiscal years 1972, 1973, and 1974 to carry out the national cancer attack program.

The House bill proposed increasing the number of cancer research institutes across the country by 15. The 15 new institutes and the 34 now in existence could receive block research grants of up to $5 million per center under a provision of the bill. The bill proposed a speedier process of awarding research grants and gives the director of the National Cancer Institute authority to approve grants of $35,000 or less instead of waiting for review by the National Cancer Advisory Council.

The House bill would establish a three-man presidentially appointed panel to monitor the national cancer attack program and report directly to the President.

Rep. Paul G. Rogers, chairman of the Public Health and Environment Subcommittee, said: "I feel very strongly that we should not create a separate bureaucracy which would be cut off from the other 10 institutes of NIH. We have seen time and again that these other institutes have produced major breakthroughs in cancer while doing work in apparently unrelated fields."

Experts Divided
The debate over whether the expanded cancer research agency should be inside or outside NIH has sharply divided scientific and medical experts.

Dr. H. Marvin Pollard, president of the American Cancer Society which supports the Senate bill, told the House subcommittee: "As I see it, establishment of the agency reflects a wise, realistic recognition that in one area of medical research—cancer...biomedical science is ready to move into an accelerated, coordinated attack on a specific disease."

Dr. Salvador E. Luria, professor of biology at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and recipient of the 1969 Nobel Prize for Medicine, told the subcommittee: "I believe the structure of the proposed agency should be one suited to a basic biomedical research program rather than to a technological crash program...It is important not to take the first step in the dismantling of NIH."

Administration Position
The Nixon Administration supports the Senate cancer bill. It has objected to a provision of the House bill calling for the director of the cancer agency to report to the director of NIH rather than directly to the President.

Wrightsville News

By DONNA DURLIN
The Wrightsville Cemetery Aid Society will hold its annual Bazaar, Bake Sale and Ham Dinner on Election Day, November 2, in the Wrightsville Community Church Fellowship Hall.

Dinner will start at noon and continue through 7:30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Faust were recent guests of the Andersons of Jamestown. While they were there a travelogue was shown by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Firth of Cassadaga on their recent trip around the United States.

The Wrightsville Community Church held their Annual Harvest Sale on Saturday evening, Oct. 23. Over $68 was taken in.

Donuts and sweet cider were served and a most enjoyable social hour was had by the small attendance.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Wrightsville Fire Department will attend a county meeting at North Warren on Thursday, Nov. 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Faust were recent callers on Mr. Frances Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Silvis of Corry.

Mrs. James King will serve as president and other officers will be: first vice president, Fay

Natives Return, View Fall Foliage

Nostalgia and the autumn foliage brought some Tidioute natives back to their home town this past week end. They were Dr. and Mrs. Walter A. Sutton, the latter the former Harriet Elder, of Erie, Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Elder, Bedford, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Sanford L. Smith (Margaret Elder), of Delmar, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. John Elder, of Waverley, Ohio.

The Elder family enjoyed their reunion in their childhood home as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Karns who now own the property on the corner of Economy and First streets. They attended worship services at Tidioute United Presbyterian Church which especially has tender associations for John Elder who, as a member of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, served in Iran for 41 years. The author of numerous books and articles on Christianity, archeology and social reform, he probably is best known for his book, "Prophecy, Idols and Diggers," published in 1960 and offering scientific proof of Bible history.

New Deadline For Tidioute News

Tidioute news will be printed on Thursdays from now on and Wednesday noon will be the new deadline for news on this page. The number to call daytimes is 726-0220, weekends and evenings 484-7760.

Youth Worship

In observance of Youth Week, the senior high church school class of First United Methodist Church will conduct the entire worship on Sunday, Oct. 31, at 11 a.m., including the sermon titled "Tuned In-Turned On."

A youth group, "New Life Singers" from Russell United Methodist Church will present folk gospel songs with guitar accompaniment.

A cordial invitation is extended to anyone desiring to attend the service and young people of the community especially are urged to come.

4-H Photo Club Begins

The new 4-H PHOTO FUN CLUB begins this week for 9 to 12 year olds in Forest County, according to County Agent William R. Wallace. Materials are now being distributed.

Wallace reports that the 4-H PHOTO FUN CLUB features a

Church Conference

The Rev. Robert Gray, superintendent of Kane District, Western Pennsylvania Conference of the United Methodist Church, has convened the fall conference for the Tidioute charge which includes the East Hickory United Methodist Church. Mr. Gray will preside at the meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 3 in Tidioute First United Methodist Church. Since this is a full church conference all members of both congregations are urged to be present.

Slates of officers for both churches will be presented by the Committee on Nominations and Personnel and following election, the pastor's report will be given by the Rev. G. Donald McAfosse. Financial reports also will be presented at this time.

Shaw; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Robert Schwab; secretary, Mrs. Clyde Daelhausen; treasurer, Mrs. Urban Roza. Mrs. King named her committees at Tuesday night's meeting held at the Presbyterian Church. They are: program, Mrs. Robert Schwab, Mrs. Fay Shaw, Miss Sally Atkin, Mrs. Robert Zorn; civic beautification, Mrs. John Christy, John Gerus, Mrs. William Allen; remembrance and garden therapy, Mrs. Wallace Herendeen, Mrs. Floyd Swanson; publicity, Mrs. Charles Weir, Mrs. Clyde Daelhausen; junior activities, Mrs. Fred Lang, Mrs. John Gerus; membership and rules, Mrs. Karl Niemann, Mrs. Herbert Bush; conservation and birds, Herbert Bush, Robert Zorn. Robert Schwab and William Allen were named auditors;

New Officers Installed At Grange Meeting

Robert Hollabaugh and his team from Watson Grange installed the new slate of officers at Mountain Grange last Friday night. Paul Thomas was returned as Worthy Master and other officers are: Earl Yeager, overseer; Mrs. Ellen Jean Downey, lecturer; Donald Dashner, steward; R. N. Summerton, assistant steward; Mrs. Doris Lanning, chaplain; Mrs. Marian Dashner, treasurer; Mrs. Esther Yeager, secretary; Frank Lamb, gatekeeper; Ceres, Mrs. Ethel Brecht; Pomona, Mrs. Shirley Johnson; Flora, Mrs. Ruth Gerus; lady assistant steward, Mrs. Jane Thomas. Earl Yeager, R. N. Summerton and John Gerus will serve on the executive committee.

The charter was draped in tribute to the late Leon Montgomery and a book placed in Tidioute Public Library in his memory.

Mrs. Paul Thomas gave a report on the smorgasbord served during the fishing tournament and wishes to thank

Harvest Festival

The annual congregational "Harvest Festival" dinner will be held at First United Methodist Church on Thursday evening, Nov. 4 at 6:15. Members and friends are invited to attend; bring a turkey and table service. Meat, rolls and beverage will be furnished by the WSCS committee.

During the program following dinner there will be a consecration service for the harvest coin folders.

series of six 30-minute TV programs designed to teach how to use a camera to take good pictures. Telling stories with photos by recording ideas, events and situations of daily activities will be another emphasis of photo fun. The series will be seen on Pittsburgh, Channel 11, WHIC at 7:00 a.m. starting Saturday, October 23; Johnstown, Channel 6, WJAC at 1:00 P.M. starting Saturday, October 30; and University Park Channel 3, WPSX at 6:30 p.m. starting Wednesday, November 10. Parents are encouraged to have their children enroll in this educational TV series by following the instructions inserted in the materials given to each boy or girl. If additional information is desired, contact your Penn State Cooperative Extension Service Office, Courthouse, Tionesta, telephone 755-3344. Enrollment materials will be forwarded on request. Members enrolled will receive their membership pin, card and 4-H PHOTO FUN CLUB manual to help them follow along with the TV 4-H meetings each week.

Mrs. Lester Noll and Mrs. Edna Moore will be co-chairmen for the flower show; Mr. and Mrs. George King will be in charge of the county fair exhibit; and Mrs. Edward Shanley, Lester Noll and Mrs. Guy Courson will comprise the past presidents' consulting committee.

Mrs. Karl Niemann reported on the hobby show conducted by the Garden Club during the fishing tournament and refreshments were served by Mrs. Shanley and Mrs. Courson. The final meeting of 1971 will be a tureen dinner at 6:30 p.m. on Dec. 7 in the Presbyterian Church. Hosts will be the officers and program committee chairman.

Each member is requested to bring a Christmas arrangement which will be distributed to the sick and lonely. Mrs. Fay Shaw will present "The Christmas Story" for the program.

publicly those who attended. Permission was granted the Firemen's Auxiliary to use the Grange Hall to serve the county firemen's dinner on Nov. 4. Six Grangers signed to go to Charleston, W. Va. on Nov. 13 to be initiated in the seventh degree. Assemblyman William Allen and Mrs. Allen expect to go also if their schedule permits.

Mrs. Laura Myers and Mrs. Esther Yeager were hostesses for the refreshment hour which featured coffee and doughnuts.

Trick Or Treat Time Planned On Friday

School parties on Friday and a parade, followed by a two-hour "Trick or Treat" time, will highlight Halloween festivities in Tidioute.

Elementary grades will have their costume parties at school on Friday while the junior and senior high students wait until evening for a party in the gym from 8 to 10:30. The Tidioute PTA hosts the school events. VFW Post 8803 will sponsor the annual Halloween costume parade which forms at the fire hall Saturday at 6:30 p.m. Tidioute firemen will assist in the line of march to the Vets building where the customary treats and prizes will be distributed.

Following the parade, young Halloweeners will spend the next couple hours ringing doorbells and "trick or treating."

Fire Building Work Progresses

Tidioute volunteer firemen discussed the progress being made at their new building when they held their October meeting Tuesday night. The building should be ready for use very soon although there is still some plumbing and molding to install, also windows and doors to be replaced.

Anyone is welcome to stop in and look around whenever they see firemen at work. The invitation also is extended to anyone who would be willing to join the work crew.

A community canvass is planned for next month by the finance committee which is comprised of Bill Karns, Krug Cyphert, Ralph Culp and Fred Barr.

Two activities in the immediate future include a turkey and luck shoot at the Bucktails shooting range on Sunday, Oct. 31 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sandwiches and coffee will be available at the site.

On Thursday evening, Nov. 4 the local firemen will host the monthly county firemen's organization with dinner to be served by the firemen's auxiliary at 7 p.m. in Mountain Grange Hall. Reservations for the dinner must be made with Paul Thomas by Monday, Nov. 1.

The radiocheck team for next month will be: Nov. 2, Dave Kane; Nov. 9, Walt Morrison; Nov. 16, Jim Wolford; Nov. 23, Walt Morrison; and Nov. 30, Fred Barr.

The ambulance was taken to Pittsburgh recently to the dealer from whom it was purchased and has now been returned after repair and painting. A stand-by ambulance was provided during the interim.

At present, the ambulance roll has 371 members. The 1971 membership year expired Oct. 1 and new 1972 cards are available from any member of the fire company.

IN MEMORIAM

Miss Felicia Passaro

The following was contributed by fellow teachers of the Tidioute Area schools:

"Somewhere back of the sunset,

Where loveliness never dies, She lives in a land of glory— With the blue and gold of the skies.

And we who have known and loved her—

Whose passing has brought sad tears—

Will cherish her memory always

To brighten the drifting years."

Miss Felicia Passaro, a teacher in Tidioute High School's business department for 28 years and for one month at Warren Area High School, passed away on October 22, 1971 after an illness of two years.

She was a life member of National Education Association; Pennsylvania State Education Association; Warren County Education Association; the Delta Kappa Gamma, an educational honorary professional society of women educators; and local and National Parent and Teacher Association.

She attended Pittsburgh public schools, and was graduated from Duquesne University with a B.A. degree in business education in 1941. She served as secretary for Warren

Dr. Harrington Speaks To Tidioute PTA Group

Dr. John Harrington, psychiatrist in private practice and director of the Warren Mental Health Center, was guest speaker Tuesday night at the Tidioute PTA meeting. He spoke on "Drugs, Use and Abuse", from marijuana to hard drugs and indicted adults with their diet pills, pickers-uppers and tranquilizers aybeing as guilty as youth.

It was reported that the fishing tournament candy sale yielded $111.27 in proceeds for the PTA activities fund. There are 82 members who have joined this year and the membership drive is still open for anyone wishing to become a member. It was voted to send $10 to the Warren County Probation Association.

PTA is sponsoring Halloween parties in the grades Friday afternoon, with a costume parade, prizes and refreshments. Friday evening from 8 to 10:30 PTA will host the junior and senior high school dance in the gym. Costumes are not mandatory. Prizes and refreshments will be on the program.

Room count award Tuesday night went to Mrs. Ruth Ulf's grade four. Refreshments were served in the cafeteria by Mrs. Robert Schwab, grade 9, and Mrs. Charles Coughlin, grade 10.

EDUCATION WEEK

Sr. Citizens Dinner Today

Senior Citizens are reminded that today (Thursday) is the day for their monthly tureen dinner which will be served following their 10:30 a.m. meeting in the Vets post rooms.

sums up our tribute to Felicia Passaro:
"In countless gentle, kindly ways
She lived a sermon all her days,
Believing in the folks she knew
And making friends her life time through.
Enjoying life, its work and fun,
She sought the best in everyone
Living her faith from day to day
She sowed good seeds along the way.
Now death has set her spirit free
In fields of immortality.
To claim a task of greater worth
Than any she had known on earth."

Shapp Urges Demo Support For All Party Candidates

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shapp urged fellow Democrats at a $100-a-plate dinner Wednesday night to work for the election of party candidates in next week's local election and then put their efforts behind the Democrats' choice for president in 1972.

"There is a crisis of confidence and already a loss of faith that the (Nixon) administration will deal constructively with our economic stagnation," Shapp said in remarks prepared for delivery at the fund raising political affair.

Some 5,000 persons were expected to attend the function where the guest speakers list included U.S. Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., Fred Harris, D-Okla., and George McGovern, D-S.D., all possible

Democratic presidential nominees.

Shapp's speech rapped President Nixon's wage-price freeze as being inappropriately timed.

"A wage-price freeze is the right answer to war time shortages and high wage demands during a period of labor shortages, but neither condition exists today," Shapp said. "The American economy is grossly under-utilized with less than three-quarters of its manufacturing capacity now at work, and with about 6 per cent of our labor force out of work, there is no labor shortage."

Predicting failure for Nixon's economic policy, Shapp suggested that the government put people to work rebuilding cities and transportation systems. Such programs, he added, would encourage private corporations to expand their industrial production and modernize their plants.

The governor blamed Nixon's economic plans for putting the country in a position at the United Nations in which it could not prevent the ouster of Taiwan. This was a result, Shapp said, of the world monetary situation which "hasn't been as confused or unpredictable since just before the Great Depression of the 1930s."

On local matters, Shapp praised his own administration for effecting far reaching programs to reform the state. He criticized former Republican Gov. Raymond P. Shafer for leaving the Commonwealth "bankrupt."

Despite the new income tax enacted during Shapp's term, the governor noted that Democratic registrations increased 225,000 over the Republicans.

"My place in history is assured," Shapp quipped. "I am the only governor in the history of the Commonwealth who has been called upon to pass two budgets and two tax programs within six months."

Parent's Day Big Hit At Y'ville Final Game

The mothers of the twelve senior boys on the Youngsville high school football team were each favored with a red rose, presented to them by cheerleaders as they sat in special reserved grandstand seats for Saturday's final home game of the season, against Townville.

It was Parents Day, and besides the mothers and fathers of the senior team members, 25

Youngsville Kids Parties Scheduled

Hallowe'en parties will be held on Friday afternoon at the Youngsville elementary school. The Youngsville Area Pre-school Mothers Club will sponsor one for all local children of pre-school age, including kindergarten, at 2 p.m. in the all-purpose room.

Costume prizes will be awarded for the funniest, prettiest, scariest and most original. There will also be awards for the best animal costume and the most space-minded.

Treats will follow the judging. Bonnie Tanski is chairman, with Roxie Zock, Erma Yucha and Janet Glasgow on her committee.

The Youngsville PTA will sponsor classroom parties for the children of the elementary school. Tickets to the next PTA-sponsored skating party will be awarded to those wearing costumes judged the most original prettiest and funniest in each room, and winners will tour all the rooms.

other sets of players' parents were also honored guests given complimentary tickets for reserved seats.

The senior parents were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. George Fill, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. William Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Waide Ingols, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kibbey, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Luvison, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston Moon, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sweetland.

The parents of 18 senior members of the marching band given recognition at half time, were also special guests.

The game turned out to be special too, as the Eagles had their first victory of the season, winning by 19 to 6 over Townville, who gave them a drubbing last year.

The senior team members will play the last game of their school careers Friday at Conneaut Valley.

A pancake supper rounded out Parents Day. It was sponsored by the Varsity Club, in the cafeteria, with coach Dave Dickson in charge.

Dead Man Found Tied

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A 45-year-old man was found dead in his East Liberty section home Wednesday with his hands and feet tied behind him with wire, police said.

The victim was identified as Thomas Washington, an unemployed cook. Police said he had either been killed or shot in the head. They also said the house had been ransacked and a robbery had apparently taken place.

Authorities said they thought Washington had been dead about five hours.

The body was found in a back bedroom on the second floor, by Mrs. Bertha M. Stores, who lived in the house. She went screaming to a neighbor's house to call police.

Harrisburg Raids Bring 27 Arrests

HARRISBURG (AP)—Police raids on Harrisburg's uptown area Wednesday resulted in 27 arrests, largely on drug and gambling charges, and confiscation of an undisclosed amount of heroin and cocaine, authorities said.

Arrested were 16 men, 10 women, and a 16-year-old boy. Most were lodged in the Dauphin County jail in lieu of bond on charges of possession and sale of drugs, gambling and illegal firearms possession.

State, county and local police took part in the raids, involving several locations.

Dauphin County Dist. Atty. Leroy Zimmerman declined to disclose the amount of drugs seized, saying that an investigation was continuing and more arrests were expected.

authority to use state funds without an appropriation bill to compensate victims of crimes. Creamer announced his plan over the weekend.

The plan called for providing $1 million for crime victims from $5 million being paid to the Commonwealth as compensation for alleged overcharges by drug companies, the senator said.

"If anything, the attorney general's first concern should be doing something to allow those who were overcharged to file claims," Fleming said.

He added that the funds belong in the state treasury and Creamer's proposal to invest them is also beyond the scope of the attorney general's authority.

"It is not a happy thought to think the Justice Department of this Commonwealth is headed by a man who proposes plans that are in direct violation of the Commonwealth's laws," Fleming said.

Borough Manager Discusses Waste Disposal At Rotary

Frank J. Strange, Warren Borough manager, discussed Solid Waste Disposal at the regular Monday noon meeting of the Warren Rotary Club at the Blue Manor. The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Ray Marti, president of Warren Boro Council.

Warren Area High School student guests were Barbara Lundberg, co-president of the Senior Class, and Ann Muczynski, class secretary, and co-captain of the girls basketball team.

Strange displayed some six inches of various solid waste disposal studies, including Warren County, other areas and state studies. "There is an awful lot of garbage," the speaker declared, adding that the solid waste sanitary land fill which will be Warren County's solution is the most economical and most feasible for both short and long range. "Most other methods that are practical and meet requirements are today mostly in pilot projects or redevelopment stage," he observed. He predicts that in the near future federal and other governments will pursue studies of the problem.

Warren County has the distinction of being the first to have its plan accepted by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania under its standard, of any county in the state. "It is something of a guiding and pilot program for others to follow," Strange said.

True costs of collection and disposal appear to be between 40 and 50 cents per month for the average household unit, according to careful studies.

The site selected as most desirable is in the Grunderville area, because of favorable geological and other conditions, for economical operation, with very minimal problems regarding environmental control.

November 1st is the deadline for closing present sites for garbage and refuse disposal, which do not meet state requirements. An appeal is being made to postpone this action to March 1st, to provide more time to implement the Warren County plan. Under the law, local governments are responsible for garbage disposal.

"The people in Warren Borough develop 30 tons a day—over 200 tons a week, or more than 10,000 tons per year," the speaker observed. "That is a lot of garbage!" he concluded.

The fact that Warren County is out in front in finding acceptable solutions for its solid waste disposal problems, Mr. Strange explains, has come about because the Warren County Commissioners, following tremendous work done by a solid waste advisory committee, created a Warren County Solid Waste Authority, which is considered unique by Pennsylvania state authorities because it represents the entire Warren County community insofar as solid waste is concerned.

The authority has nine members representing six districts. 65 to 70 percent of the total refuse is generated in District Two—made up of Warren and Clarendon boroughs, and the townships of Meade, Pleasant, Glade and Conewango. Other districts are made up similarly, including several towns and boroughs.

THE WELFARE PROBLEM: LAST IN A SERIES

Reform Movement Under Way

By BOB ROGGE

It seems that, at last, the state legislature is on the move in regard to the welfare situation in Pennsylvania. The reasons behind such a move could be a real concern for overall state spending or a reaction to public opinion as expressed in the flood of mail crossing their desks in Harrisburg.

The Senate Minority Caucus, chaired by Sen. Richard A. Snyder of Lancaster, Pa., went to work and asked the executive directors of the welfare programs in the 67 counties two questions that have direct relationship to the problem and, hopefully, a modicum of cure. The questions were: (1) What have been the chief causes of the increase in public assistance? and (2) Have you any suggestions which would help to remove persons from the rolls who should not be there?

The answers, naturally, varied from county to county, but there was a stream of togetherness evident in them. There were about nine federal and state actions, the county directors felt, that would have a direct bearing on the welfare situation. Foremost was the request that Congress should repeal or amend the $30 and 1/3 formula. The directors said, in effect: This formula, enacted by Congress, has become a monster. It was intended as an incentive for people on welfare to go to work. By it, they are promised a limited amount of welfare in addition to their pay checks. However, it has proved to be inequitable in thousands of factories, stores, and other enterprises between the working population and those on welfare who have joined the work force. "Repeal or amend it," was the sentiment.

The enactment of a meaningful public works program was cited as another major means of reducing public welfare rolls. "The idea that those on public assistance should not have to work for their money is a false premise—others who work and are not on public assistance do not enjoy this concession." The county directors further stated that public works programs would "go a long way toward 'encouraging self-respect, self-dependency, and the desire to be a good citizen and useful to society.'"

It is apparent that a goodly number of the county executives of public welfare have taken a long, hard look at the welfare situations in their counties, for the consensus of opinion among them on the whole system boiled down to this: "The Department of Public Welfare should tighten its whole system, with emphasis on rigorous screening at the intake, periodic checking, immediate pursuit of suspected fraud, and prompt closing of cases."

The welfare roll growth problem seemingly does not lie entirely at the public's door; the system itself is to blame for much of the abuse.

And then there is the eternal bug-a-boo of all bureaucratic enterprises—paperwork and regulations. Voluminous regulations at both federal and state levels often swamp case workers and "looseness prevails" according to the answers returned. The suggestion was put forward that all regulations be scrapped and an entirely new start be made.

If this latter can be accomplished in face of entrenched bureaucrats who would inevitably see in it an endangering of their jobs, then perhaps the entire welfare program would become a better and more manageable system.

The intent of the answers returned by the county executive directors was not to deny welfare payments to the needy. Far from it; Pennsylvania has always been a leader in giving a helping hand to those persons genuinely in need. However, the boondogglers, the wastrels, the ones who clearly should not be drawing public assistance are the targets of the reform movement that is growing. With the deadwood cleared out, both within the ranks of the department and in those of the recipients, it would seem that this county's welfare program would be more streamlined, more able to care for those cases of genuine need and more able to reduce its overall operative expenses...which is the final, and only acceptable answer in which the working public is interested.

Auto Inspection Periods Change

Monday, November 1, marks the beginning of the three-month inspection period for both passenger cars and commercial vehicles bearing an inspection sticker bearing the numeral "2".

State Secretary of Transportation Jacob Kassab announced that there will be no extension for inspection of vehicles bearing a sticker with the numeral "1" deadline for which comes at midnight Sunday, October 31. These stickers will be replaced with another bearing the numeral "3".

William B. Blake, PennDOT's Deputy Secretary for Safety Administration, urges owners of vehicles subject to inspection in the coming campaign to get the semi-annual checkup early in the inspection period which continues through January 31. The number "2" sticker will be replaced with one carrying the numeral "4".
